

WATER BOARD WITHOUT AUTHORITY TO SUPPLY WATER OUTSIDE CITY

Question Again Raised on Leininger's Request to Extend Service on Lucas Avenue—Joy's Lane Residents Seek Increased Pressure—Standpipe Service.

The fact that the board of water commissioners have no legal right to supply city water to consumers outside the city limits was again brought up at the regular monthly meeting of the board Thursday afternoon when a request was received from H. Leininger, Jr., of No. 42 Furnace street, to extend the water service on Lucas avenue.

Mr. Leininger is erecting a house at No. 320 Lucas avenue, and a relative of his is to erect another house at No. 318 Lucas avenue. The houses are built just outside the city limits. The nearest city hydrant is located about on the city line and 140 feet away from the Leininger house.

It was brought out that requests of a similar nature had been made by other property owners just outside the city limits in other sections of the city, but that the board had no legal right to supply city water to any one outside the city limits. President Canfield stated that the entire question had been thoroughly thrashed out a number of years ago, and the law of regulation covering that question was still in force and effect.

Joy's Lane Water. President Palmer A. Canfield presided at the session, with Commissioners George Burgevin, A. D. Rose, John D. Schoonmaker and Dr. E. H. Loughran present.

Dr. Loughran stated that Supervisor J. Charles Snyder had stopped him and informed him of water conditions in Joy's Lane. When the first houses were built in the Lane a small extension was made of the water service which furnished sufficient pressure at that time. Since then a number of new houses had been erected in Joy's Lane and as a result there was not enough pressure from the small pipe to supply all of the houses.

Supervisor Snyder was anxious for the board to install larger service pipe in the street which would give more pressure.

The board referred the request to the committee on extensions and improvements to have the work done before winter sets in if the committee deemed it advisable.

Wants Hydrant Moved.

Jacob Lay, the Hasbrouck avenue butcher, sent in a communication to the board calling attention to the fact that he expected to erect a garage opposite his place of business and that a fire hydrant now there would interfere with the use of the garage as cars would not be able to park in front of the building. He asked the board to remove the fire hydrant to another location in the near vicinity. The request was referred to Superintendent Harrison with power.

Standpipes and Insurance.

Commissioner Burgevin stated that one of the large concerns of the city who have a standpipe service installed in the building for which they pay $25 a year to the water board had informed him that the building was now metered and was paying for all water actually used and for that reason believed the charge for standpipe service should be eliminated.

President Canfield explained that the standpipe charge of $25 a year was the regulation charge as fixed by the water department some time ago. Similar service was had and paid for by other concerns in the city. The small charge of $25 was more than offset by the reduction in fire insurance premiums. He said that when John Hauck was president of the water board a standpipe service had been installed in the Hauck plant at Wurts and McEntee streets, and if he remembered correctly Mr. Hauck had told him it had meant a saving of about $1,200 in fire insurance premiums.

Not On Meter.

Secretary A. W. Tongue, when asked by the board, stated that the standpipe service was not connected with the water meter as the fire underwriters did not allow it.

The board directed Secretary Tongue to write the facts given above to the concern seeking the elimination of the standpipe charge. The board audited a number of bills and then adjourned.

ACCEPTING SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR JEWISH BUILDING

A committee has been appointed by the Congregation Ahavath Israel for the acceptance of subscriptions for the erection of a new building at East Union and Chambers streets.

An Auto Crash.

Thursday afternoon at the corner of East Chester street and Hasbrouck avenue, where there have been a number of auto crashes lately, a Columbia car owned by Charles Carl, of 26 North street, and driven by Mike Tresoloni of 37 Hanratty street, hit a Dodge coupe owned and driven by Benjamin Rhymer of 11 Stanley street, according to a police report of the accident. No one was injured, but both cars were badly damaged.

STATE POWER IN "DRY" ENFORCEMENT

Federal Government to Authorize State and City Officers to Inspect Breweries, Distilleries and Selling Agencies.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Nov. 9.—Federal prohibition officials today sought to fix larger responsibility upon state officers for Volstead law enforcement, by authorizing state and municipal officers to make inspections of breweries, whiskey and alcohol distilleries and of all other concerns legally permitted to manufacture, sell or buy liquors.

All liquor permits granted by government for 1924 will contain a provision authorizing inspections by state and municipal officers. "This is sweeping departure from the former policy under which only federal internal revenue or prohibition enforcement agents made such inspections, to discover possible violations of the law."

Reichswehr Apparently Remains Loyal—Ludendorff Said to be Wounded—Von Kahr Controls Situation—"March on Berlin" Fails to Materialize.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Berlin, Nov. 9.—The Bavarian Nationalist revolt appeared today to be collapsing within 24 hours after it was begun last night at Munich.

Fighting was reported at Munich between Reichswehr and Fascists, in which General Ludendorff, one of the ring leaders in the uprising was wounded.

Conflicting reports were received over the actual fate of Ludendorff and Adolf Hitler, leader of the Fascists. First news from Munich was that dissections had broken out and that Dr. Von Kahr, "National Protector of Bavaria," had disavowed the revolt and ordered the arrest of Ludendorff and Hitler. Later they were said to be in the hands of the Reichswehr. Still later Hitler was said to have escaped.

Ludendorff had taken refuge in the Bavarian War Ministry which was attacked by Federal troops.

The South Bavarian Reichswehr entered Munich during the morning.

There were evidences that the struggle in Bavaria rests between two factions of the Nationalist party for control. So far Von Kahr is the victor. He is supported by General Von Lossow, former commander of the Munich Reichswehr.

German government officials here said they were more hopeful this afternoon. They believed the Reichswehr will remain loyal and control the situation.

At Stuttgart, soldiers and police attacked the Fascists, expelling them from the barracks and municipal buildings.

Advices from Thuringia said that the program for the Bavarian Fascists to "march upon Berlin" today—the fifth anniversary of the 1918 revolution, has failed.

Scout Commissioner Gordon, in charge of the Ulster county Boy Scout campaign, made a brief but interesting address on Boy Scout work and James H. Hare, erstwhile war correspondent and photographer in many lands, now connected with Pennington's, gave a few more colorful reminiscences that were enthusiastically received.

Many of those present remained at the dance which followed until midnight.

Mrs. Henion Hurt.

Mrs. Samuel Henion of Catherine street, when visiting her father's home, fell down stairs, injuring her side, cutting her eye badly and spraining her arm. She is recovering under the care of Dr. Van Nostrand.

Col. Chandler Resigns As Head of State Police

In Order to Devote Himself to His Profession—Term Had 3 Years to Run—Department He Created Now at Peak of Efficiency.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 9.—Colonel George F. Chandler today filed with Governor Smith his resignation of the office of superintendent of state police, to take effect by December 1 or as soon thereafter as possible.

Colonel Chandler had more than three years yet to serve before the expiration of the term for which he was appointed, but says he feels it necessary to resign in order to devote his entire time to his profession.

The resignation in full follows:

State of New York
Department of State Police
Albany

George F. Chandler, M. D.,
Superintendent

Governor Alfred E. Smith,
Executive Chamber,
Albany, N. Y.

My dear Governor, May I ask that you accept my resignation as Superintendent of the Department of State Police to take effect by December 1 or as soon thereafter as may be convenient to you.

I deeply appreciate the honor of having been allowed to create a new department of state, and to have founded the New York State School for Police under the State Regents.

Also to have had delegated to me two years ago the power to appoint the railroad policemen of the state, all with the cooperation and help of four administrations.

This department is the largest state police in the United States, and is the best housed rural police on our continent. The organization is in flourishing condition, its personnel is complete, its equipment adequate, its barracks now the property of the state, and its morale never so high.

I am convinced that the law-abiding citizens of the State of New York now recognize the value of the State Troopers to the rural communities, and depend upon them for protection.

While over three years still remain of my second term, I feel that I must relinquish my state position and devote my entire time to my own profession.

Yours very sincerely,
GEORGE F. CHANDLER.

November 9, 1923.

The state troopers, officially designated state police, were authorized by a law passed in 1917 while Charles S. Whitman was governor and were organized in July of that year by Dr. George Fletcher Chandler of Kingston, who was appointed by Governor Whitman to be the first superintendent. After four months of organization and training the state troopers began to function at the 1917 state fair at Syracuse. The force consisted of four troops, it now consists of six troops, with barracks located at Batavia, Malone, Sidney, Oneida, Troy and White Plains. There are 58 men in each troop, including officers and in 1922 these 464 troopers recovered stolen property to the value of nearly $1,000,000, made 19,797 arrests and obtained 9,799 convictions, 91 per cent of the persons arrested having been convicted and only four per cent discharged. The remaining cases being pending at the end of the year. The state troopers were the cause of $158,000 in fines being collected last year.

Governor Whitman was greatly interested in making the new state police a success, free from political influence, efficient and well organized. Without consulting any politicians or considering political expediency in any way, the governor turned to his personal friend, Dr. Chandler, as the man for the job. Governor Whitman and Dr. Chandler had in their college days, when both were working their way toward an education, been chums in New York city and the friendship and respect they formed had endured. Dr. Chandler was nominally a Democrat and Governor Whitman was a Republican, but the call of friendship and the feeling of confidence was stronger than partisan ties or political manipulation and the governor sent for the doctor and offered him the appointment, confident that Dr. Chandler was one of the few men who could and would organize and direct the new arm of state government successfully and along right lines.

Not without reluctance and at considerable sacrifice, the appointment was accepted and until the organization was completed and the troopers had settled down to work, Dr. Chandler's time was taken up almost exclusively in that work. As the state troopers became more firmly established, the superintendent was able to again devote a share of his time to the practice of his profession, but with growing demands he has found it impossible to longer continue the work of a surgeon in active practice and give the time necessary to the duties of his office.

Dr. Chandler was appointed for a term of five years and early in 1922 was reappointed by Governor Smith for a second term of five years. His relations with two Republican governors and with Governor Smith during a full term and nearly a year of another have been most cordial. With their support he has induced the legislature to provide more

TEN TYPHOID CASES IN CITY

Dr. Daniel Connelly, city health officer, stated this morning that at the present time there are ten cases of typhoid fever in Kingston, two of them being non-residents. Dr. Connelly stated that all of the cases were under quarantine and no efforts were being spared to prevent a further spread of the disease. It has been found practically impossible to trace the origin of the cases as they are widely scattered. The outbreak started in October. There has been one death from the disease, that of a child, in Kingston.

K. H. S. ELEVEN AT SARATOGA

Saturday With Regulars, in Good Shape—Dramatic Club Organized—Webster-Hayne Club Debates and Girls Play Hockey.

Saturday the football team of the local high school takes its longest trip of the season to Saratoga Springs, where it meets the high school of that place. The local team is in good condition this week and should show up well in Saturday's game. On Monday and Wednesday the team had signal practice and on Thursday scrimmaged.

In former years K. H. S. has been able to defeat Saratoga Springs and with the team that Coach Stroup has developed, K. H. S. should win. Coach Stroup will probably start the same lineup as he has in the other games. Bradley and Carroll, ends; Melane and Messenger, tackles; Captain O'Reilly and Simonetti, guards; Cassidy, center. The backfield, Bailey, quarterback; Davenport and Anderson, halfbacks, and Vogt fullback.

Wednesday afternoon the Dramatic Club organized and elected the following officers for the year: President, Henry Millonig, vice-president, Sarah Davis, secretary, Ruth Clark, treasurer, A. Morgenstern. Last year the club did not carry out its program on account of the extended absence of Miss Carter, but is expected that the club will do some real work this year. The faculty advisors are: Miss Tarrant, Miss Conaro and Miss Greene.

The Webster-Hayne Debating Club held its third trial debate Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium. The question debated was, "Resolved, that the present limitation immigration law is unjust, unwise and contrary to the national welfare."

The affirmative side, which was upheld by Greene, reader; A. Pennington and N. Katz, received the unanimous decision of the judges. The losing team was, Lawatsh, leader; E. Powley and J. Lehner. The judges were, Mrs. Witter, Mr. Cocks and Mr. Clum.

Miss Tidwell, the girls' gym teacher, has interested many girls of the various classes in hockey. A field has been marked off on the grounds in the rear of the high school, and the girls practice there every night. A league will probably be formed between the classes and a schedule of hockey games arranged.

D'LONG SAYS HE IS NOT GUILTY

Mayo DeLong of Windham, recently discharged from the United States Navy, was arrested Thursday afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Soper on a charge of driving an automobile 32 miles an hour on Broadway while in an intoxicated condition.

This morning DeLong was arraigned before Judge Robert G. Groves in police court, and entered a plea of not guilty. The hearing was adjourned to Monday. In default of furnishing $500 bail DeLong was committed to the county jail until the date of the hearing.

REPUBLICANS WIN IN GREENE COUNTY ELECTIONS

Former Deputy Attorney General William E. Thorpe of Catskill was elected county judge and surrogate of Greene county in Tuesday's election. Ellis W. Bentley of Windham was re-elected assemblyman. Lyle E. Baldwin of Tannersville were elected coroners. All are Republicans. The next board of supervisors of Greene county will contain eight Republicans and six Democrats.

men on the force, adequate barracks and equipment and a sufficient appropriation. He leaves the troopers in running order, well housed, cheerful and regarded by county and town officials, as well as all citizens in rural parts of the state, as indispensable. The untired experiment of 1917 has proved a success, largely because the right man was on the job at the beginning.

WOODSTOCK'S NEW PAINTING SCHOOL

Serious Experimental Work Being Conducted There Says New York Critic After Viewing Exhibition at "New Gallery."

The "Woodstock Exhibition," which remains open until November 17 at the "New Gallery," 600 Madison avenue, says the New York Sun and Globe, emphasizes the fact that a certain group of men and women who have made the Catskills their home are developing a school of painting which reveals much serious work in the experimental sphere of modern art.

In order to fully appreciate what these painters are striving for one must first do a little dissecting and remove Messrs. Henri, Bellows and Spender—strong painters, to be sure, but belonging to quite another phase of our present day art, a phase better realized through inspection of the annual displays of "The New Society," of which they are charter members.

He who would get at the essentials for which the modern group in Woodstock is striving had better study in the current show, the examples of the painting of Henry L. McFee, Warren Wheelock, Andrew Dasburg and others of their kind. McFee's output tells of a serious research for fundamentals, and he may well be termed a fundamentalist. His portrait of little Alvan Cramer is a work in which one feels his efforts to sweep away the superficialities both in detail and color and to model with almost a sculptural simplicity the underlying structural form.

Warren Wheelock is a colorist, a poetic dreamer in paint and a decorator in sculpture. His wood carving of Lincoln is hardly to be taken seriously, and his outdoor figure composition, seen formerly at the Independents, is not a marked success as a painting, but to see him at his best one may turn to "Landscape," an oil which is a delight to the eye. Its author has taken for his theme a bit of undulating foreground rising toward a small mountainous crest surrounded by larger hills and enveloped in that brilliant clear blue so typical of the Catskills. And, though adhering to the local topography, he has translated it into a symbolized expression of the vast area of interesting detail that the eye perceives—houses, barns, rocks, roads, trees, fenced in fields, and mountain forms made utterly charming through a naturally refined personal color sense. Some of the loveliest of Mr. Wheelock's small sculptures are also shown.

Dasburg's attributes are those of the realist. He portrays uncomprehendingly the chosen subject, be it a portrait such as the Judson Smith, or a bit of Zuni landscape.

There are many works arresting in their individuality, among them Alexander Attenburg's landscapes, Peggy Bacon's drawings, John Carroll's still life, a dramatic cloud by Ernest Feine, Mr. Schnakenberg's landscape, Hermon Moore's "Factory Town," Caroline Spence's "Hillside in Provence" and Paul Rohland's three canvases, though the latter, perhaps in an effort to attain the "photo quality" so dear to the hearts of "moderns" in art, has made the petals of his golden, peony flowered dahlias appear like so many bananas. However, the water so many have thought of as the backbone of the paintings by the Hudson River School, which were exhibited last year, are still at the New Gallery.

WHO SHOULD JOIN THE AUXILIARY?

Every intelligent woman in the city takes an interest in the institutions that make her city what it is. The hospitals of Kingston are an integral part of its foundation. Not every woman in Kingston can give time to help in the special work of a hospital auxiliary, but most of them can help to the extent of taking out a membership in such an organization. The fact that her name is on the list of members and that she will give a small sum each year to show her sympathy and interest stamps a woman as a public spirited citizen. The present membership campaign conducted by the women of the Kingston City Hospital Auxiliary aims to bring in such women as have perhaps given no thought to this before.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 9, 1923.

THAT "NORMAL MAJORITY."

In various newspapers there has appeared a statement that in Ulster county the normal Republican majority is 6,000 and from this alleged fact, but actual fiction, the little coterie of meddlesome tyrants who sought to control the recent election are deriving great satisfaction. Except in the abnormal tidal wave of 1920 there has been no 6,000 majority in Ulster county. Last year was a normal year, and the majorities were:

Calder, for U. S. Senator, 2,241.
Miller, for Governor, 1,846.
Donovan, for Lieut. Governor, 2,647.
Ward, for Congress, 1,925.
Benton, for State Senator, 3,325.
Van Wageningen, for Assembly, 2,086.

Conner, for Coroner, 2,651.

Mr. Bouton's large majority is accounted for by the fact that nobody had ever heard of his opponent. Mr. Ward was confronted by the issue that made Mr. Van Wageningen's campaign so lively this year, but there was no unification of effort such as was brought about this year and Mr. Ward's opponent was exceedingly weak. In the case of Mr. Van Wageningen, the issue was not raised by his opponent and there was no endorsement of the Democratic candidate by the Anti-Saloon League or any of its associate organizations. From this it appears that the mightiest efforts of the various "Leagues," added by the Young & Roberts cohorts supporting a Democratic candidate who successfully sought to be all things to all men, succeeded in reducing Mr. Van Wageningen's majority by less than 900 votes.

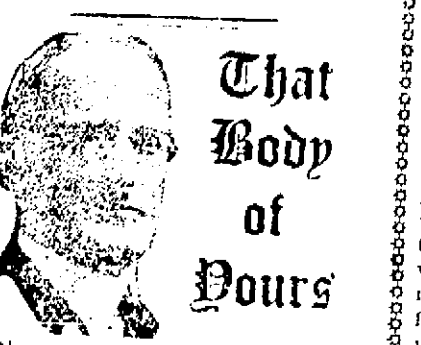

In his triumphant statement of "smashing dry victories," William H. Anderson not only excuses the rebuke given him in Ulster county but ignores other and similar setbacks in other counties. In Monroe county two Republicans very distasteful to Mr. Anderson were elected to the assembly. Of one of those men, Assemblyman Griffith, Anderson in his instructions to voters said: "Record vet. Voted for repeal against sentiment of his district." The Democratic opponent of Assemblyman Griffith was set down in the Anderson instructions as having "made reply satisfactory in general terms to local committee" to questions in the Anderson catechism. In Rockland county Assemblyman Gedney, who stated that he believed each state should have the right to define for itself what constitutes the alcoholic content of beer, was re-elected. In Sullivan county Assemblyman Cross, a Democrat, who was made the target of abuse because he voted to repeal the senseless Mullan-Gage Law, and who was opposed by a bone dry Republican, was re-elected. Then there are Kahler of Chemung and Livingston of Columbia, two Democrats highly praised and endorsed by Anderson for their subservience to the Anti-Saloon League in the last legislature. Both were candidates for re-election and both were defeated. Evidently Ulster county is not the only place in which the voters have declared their independence, although Ulster is the only county in which they have reiterated that declaration.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon sent a tart reply to the criticisms of Governor Pinchot on Federal liquor enforcement that ought to silence that gentleman for a while. Mr. Mellon answers in detail all the charges brought by Pinchot, which he characterized as "gratuitous and unfounded in fact," and intimated that it would be better to expend energy in ascertaining the facts and actually enforcing the law than in the promotion of "unjustified criticism." The secretary reminded Mr. Pinchot that under the state law of Pennsylvania it is easier to proceed against prohibition violators than under the Volstead act.

"If we pay, we must be paid," declared various French officials when told that the American Debt Refunding Commission had expressed a hope for early adjustments. That is the new code of honor that some nations of the Old World have evolved since the war. It has never been recognized by this government nor by any of its citizens. When the day of settlement arrives in this country it is customary to pay or else be adjudged a bankrupt and suffer the loss of all available assets for distribution among creditors. Senator McCormick intimated that if France can never meet her obligations in money she might surrender title to some of her colonies in the New World. That would be according to the well recognized procedure among individuals the world over.

The president of one of the large oil companies says that last year the producers of oil "paid out more money for drilling new wells than they received from the sale of all the oil from all the new wells and all the old wells." He gives details showing the enormous cost of production, including drilling, royalties, corporate expenses, tankage, pipe lines, etc. The recent cut in gasoline prices as a result of a price war has led many people to believe that most of the oil companies are conscienceless profiteers. In estimating profits of those concerns too little attention is given to the detailed cost of production. Of course hundreds of wells are bored that never produce any oil at all, and yet prospecting of that sort is necessary if all the oil resources of the country are to be developed. Before we condemn those who have made it possible to buy gasoline at every convenient stopping point, we should become acquainted with the difficulties and enormous expenses that they have had to meet.

IRON MEN OR WOODEN MEN.

A sea yarn in one of the magazines told of a couple of old seamen who built a wooden vessel. They were teased so much about their wooden boat, as compared to iron or steel, that one of them turned on his rival mentor and said:

"Well I guess a wooden boat with iron men is a whole lot better than an iron boat with wooden men."

One can do some thinking about that old skipper's remark.

It is the same old story. Everything, or nearly everything is now done for us.

A man doesn't have a trade as in the old days. He learns to do one single job on one machine.

His body and mind get no development because the real work is done by the machinery and he simply starts, stops, or feeds the machine.

Now it would be foolish to say that work is not as well done as in the old days.

But which is the more important, work or men?

What am I aiming at?

That irrespective of electricity, or elevators, or motor cars, or self feeding machinery, that body of yours is just the same as in the days of the earliest history we have of man.

What did our early man do?

Hunted and fished, and tilled the ground.

And your body needs just the same things as did his, food, work and the outdoors.

And so the seaman or sailor of bygone days, had to hurry up the rigging, tug at the sails, stand his watch by day and night.

He became verily an iron man.

He could eat anything, sleep anywhere or anytime, and do a twenty-four hour spell of work if necessary.

You and I can't become iron men at our regular work, and yet we cannot become iron men by any royal road. There is no royal road to acquiring the strength and vigor of an iron man.

Strength and vigor come only by exercise, by sane eating, and perhaps by some self denial. It is just giving to that body of yours the care and attention you would bestow on something for which you cared a great deal.

And what is worth more to you than a strong healthy body? Nothing.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Nov. 9, 1903.—Engagement of Miss Ethel B. Mergenthal and Philip J. Doherty announced.

Mrs. Joseph Schuler died at her home on Hunter street.

Nov. 9, 1913.—John Klem, 12 years, shot at a fly and killed his mother, Mrs. Samuel Klem, at the family home on Hanratty street.

Heavy rains caused Roundout creek to overflow its banks.

Timothy Curtin died at his home on Sycamore street.

Potato and Adam.

In England the first efforts to promote the cultivation of the potato were suspected to be a conspiracy of capitalists to oppress the poor. The labor leader, William Corbett, said: "Working men ought not to be induced to live on such 'cattle food.'"

In 1725 an attempt was made to introduce potatoes into Scotland, but they were denounced from the pulpit on two contradictory counts: that they were not mentioned in the Bible, and so not for the Christians, and that they were the forbidden fruit, the cause of Adam's fall. They were accused of causing leprosy and fever.

HOW

YOU CAN REMEMBER NAMES AND NAMES OF PEOPLE—see you using all of your brains?

Dr. James J. Walsh, noted psychologist, asks this question asserting that comparatively few people do so in one important respect—the development and maintenance of their memories.

There is scant excuse, writes Doctor Walsh, for anyone's having a poor memory. We never completely forget anything we have learned, but the problem is to train the mind to reproduce for us any fact we desire to remember. This, he says, can be accomplished by observing a few simple rules.

The first thing to be cultivated by a person who desires to improve his memory, states Doctor Walsh, is the habit of attention. "Learn to concentrate."

"Perhaps you say you cannot remember faces," he continues, "but if that is true, it is because you are not sufficiently interested in the new people you meet. Catalogue in your mind the various types of faces—round, oval, long, bony—and the various types of eyes, noses, chins, mouths, foreheads and jaws; then fit each new face you see into its proper type and make mental note of the features in which it differs from other faces. Try to find some resemblance between that face and the face of some one you know well."

"In seeking to remember facts, look in pictures. A child remembers a zebra as a striped horse and a giraffe as a long-necked horse."

"If remembering numbers is your chief difficulty, do simple sums in arithmetic as a pastime, to accustom yourself to dealing with numbers. A similar cure may be practiced by persons who find difficulty in remembering words. Learn a few lines of verse every day. When you are riding on street cars, commit to memory the text of the advertising cards."

"If you cannot remember names, attempt a classification of them similar to your classification of faces. If the names are of foreign origin, remember from what country they come. Fix their rhythm in your mind. John Alphonsus Smith has as definite a rhythm as the first line of 'The Star Spangled Banner.' So has the telephone number 'Main eight six hundred.' Names derived from such things as colors and animals suggest their own classification. Other names may suggest pictures. In any case, spell the name to yourself and see the letters in your mind."

"Have confidence in your memory, and don't rely on pencilled notes or the memories of others. Use as many senses as possible in obtaining an impression of an object, and revive your impressions frequently. After a vacation, actors must rehearse roles in which they have appeared many times. Make your memory training practical and useful. A telephone operator, for example, might use her time better in committing telephone numbers to memory than in memorizing English verse."

"Genius," says Lowell, "is accumulated memory." Those who possess genius almost invariably have retentive memories, because early in their careers they learned to use their brains—all of them."—Popular Science Monthly.

FACTS ABOUT CHARING CROSS

Area Near Trafalgar Square, London, Probably Derives Name From Village of Chering.

Charing Cross is a large area on the south side of Trafalgar square, London, between the Strand and Whitehall. It probably derives its name from the village of Chering, which stood there in the Thirteenth century. A fanciful tradition, however, assigns the origin of the name to the stone cross erected there by Edward I (1272-1307), in memory of his wife, Eleanor, la chere reine (the dear queen). According to other authorities, this word is said to be derived from the Saxon charan (to bend)—both river and road making a bend there. The cross erected there by Edward I was pulled down by the Long parliament in 1647. A modern cross, designed as a reproduction of the original one, has been erected in front of the Charing Cross railway station. The Regicides were put to death there in 1660.

How to Loosen Hard Knots.

To loosen the hardest knots in harness, straps, cords, ropes, or even shoestrings, hammer the knot on all sides with a mallet or piece of wood, turning the strap or rope around. Then dip in boiling water, holding it there a minute or two, according to the size of the knot to be loosened. Before doing so add a little soap to the water—common laundry soap is best—then with a sharp-pointed instrument pick the knot loose. It can often be done with the fingers. Knots that have been pulled in harness, ropes, or twine for months or years can be loosened readily.

TROUT OUTPUT LARGE.

Second Stocking Will Help Replace Loss Through Drought.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 9.—The state trout hatcheries, operated by the conservation commission, have finished their distribution work for the season of 1923. The output has been exceptionally large and the young trout have been in fine condition and extraordinarily vigorous. The commission and the general public have been fortunate that this condition has been one of unprecedented drought and the drying up of trout streams and even of wells known as "trout holes" has wrought havoc with trout fishing all over the state. In this extremity, the splendid trout crop at the state hatcheries during the past year has been utilized in filling second applications for trout where the dry condition, has done the most damage, but where the streams showed evidence of regaining their former flow.

Distributing Yellow Perch.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 9.—Yellow perch fingerlings are being distributed from Oneida Hatchery of the conservation commission. The distribution will continue until about the middle of November.

BINNEWATER.

Binnewater, Nov. 8.—Burnett Freer has returned home after spending some time with his daughter, Mrs. Ed Booth, in Poughkeepsie.

Frank Monahan and Lewis Lasher of this place have secured positions in Poughkeepsie.

Harry Freer and wife, accompanied by Floyd Deitz and wife, made a trip to New York Sunday in Mr. Freer's car.

Wedding bells will soon ring in our little hamlet, so rumor says. Freeman Keator and wife have left this place for the winter, as they both have positions in Kingston.

Grace Davis of Cottage Hill called on people in this place Monday evening. Miss Clara Stokes of Kingston spent Saturday and Sunday in this place.

James Radloff of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday with Grandpa Freer. Rufus Freer, and family of Mt. Marion spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Freer.

Mrs. Fred Jordan has been spending a few days with her sister at Whiteport.

Winding Up.
His one relaxation was chess by correspondence, but he was rather surprised one morning to get a letter from a firm of solicitors, "Dear sir," they wrote, "we regret to inform you that since your last move our client has passed away. Would you be kind enough to sign and return to us the inclosed form, declaring a stalemate?"—London Express.

BOY SCOUTS

STUDY SCOUTING BY MAIL

That boy scout leaders and prospective scout leaders everywhere can now study the ins and outs of the art of scoutmastering, under their own reading lamp, is shown in the recent first report of the home study course in scoutmastering, conducted by the extension department of Columbia University under the supervision of the department of education, Boy Scouts of America. In one year 204 scoutmasters, some commissioners, scout executives and other leaders enrolled for the course. The registrations came from every state in the Union, chiefly from scoutmasters in small towns where leadership training was not available. Among the students enrolled were two in Hawaii and one each in Australia, China and India.

The course has been developed to assist scoutmasters to solve the various problems of troop management, meeting program, hike and camp activities, instructions and tests, patrol organization and the like. The course consists of a directed study of the handbooks, reinforced by additional booklets on the technique of scouting, and focused by the personal advice of the instructor of the course.

That the course is of practical value is shown by the comments received. One scoutmaster reported improved discipline; another, better results from his patrol leaders; a third, a great increase in the number of tests passed. One student declared that he owed his promotion to the position of deputy commissioner to his increased efficiency as a result of taking the course. Information about the course can be secured by addressing the Home Study Department, Columbia University, 419 West One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, New York City.

A "GOOD TURN" ON THE FARM

"Whenever, wherever, whatever" sums up opportunities for a boy scout to perform the daily good turn. A boy living at an inconvenient distance from a troop can join the movement as a pioneer scout and record his advance in scouting direct with the national council. Many pioneer scouts have achieved remarkable and inspiring records in various branches of outcraft.

SCOUT SAVES DEAF MUTE

A deaf and dumb man, stricken with cramps while recently swimming in the Willamette river, owes his life to the prompt action of fifteen-year-old Scout Glenn Barcher of Albany, Ore. Although sinking, the man could make no outcry. The scout, however, noting his fellow-swimmer's struggles to keep up, stroked out to help. Securing a hold on the man, the boy started pulling him toward shore. After being buffeted by the heavy current which dragged the pair downstream fifty feet, the scout succeeded in bringing the man to safety.

SPEAKS OF SCOUTS' AIMS

"The scouts... elop the best there is in the boy... to shout square, to be kind, to consider the rights of others—these are the fundamental principles of their organization."—Annconia (Mont.) Standard.

SCOUTING AND MANHOOD

"Scout merit badges are testimonials of future good citizenship and of clean, stronger and more courageous manhood."—Marion (Ind.) Tribune.

HONOLULU SCOUTS ACTIVE

Honolulu boy scouts, with a record of 5,739 hours of community service performed in five months, give a striking example of the far-reaching influence of the scout pledge "to help people at all times." During 36 days of the above-mentioned period the scouts answered 25 different calls for community service. Among these were assistance to Near East Relief, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Rotary club and the R. O. T. C.

GAME PROTECTORS RECOVER $40,000

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 8.—Game protectors of the conservation commission prosecuted 437 cases of game law violations and recovered in fines and penalties $10,722.30 during the last half of the month of October. This is the largest number of cases and the largest recovery ever made within the space of two weeks since the game protective force was organized. Since July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, the protectors prosecuted up to October 31, 1,467 cases with a total recovery of $37,417.99, as compared with 955 cases with a total recovery of $21,655.76 for the corresponding four months of last year.

Game protectors Jacob O. Snyder and Harvey B. Cruikshank recently settled two actions against a resident of Saratoga county for possessing and serving the meat of wild deer during the closed season, and also for possessing for sale 111 brook trout, 75 being less than six inches in length, for the sum of $400.

For permitting refuse from a milk factory to enter a stream in Orange county in quantities injurious to fish life, in violation of section 347 of the conservation law, the company operating the factory paid $100.

For possessing three hen pheasants and shooting one cock pheasant during the close season four residents of Buffalo paid $250.

Game protectors of the conservation commission are taught that the prevention of violations is even more important than the punishment of violators. In a recent letter to the commission, commending the work of Game Protector Bacon of Goshen for the manner in which he had handled cases of trespassing on posted land, George F. Roesch, 2nd, wrote: "Mr. Bacon is a great influence for good in this part of the country and his reputation goes far to deter violations of the game laws."

SARATOGA BATH RECEIPTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 8.—Receipts for the first three months of the current fiscal year at the state re-creation, Saratoga Springs, amounted to $94,248.52, which is a gain of $11,010.18 over the receipts for the corresponding three months of 1922. The principal items of increase were Saratoga baths, $61,193.39; Washington baths, $2,883.70.

HIGH WOODS

High Woods, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Catherine Shortt is going to spend some time with her son and daughter at Saratoga Lake.

Mrs. Margaret A. Blackwell has returned from spending a few days with her brother, William T. Russell, at Smith's Corners.

Ernest R. Palen, theological student, gave a fine message Sunday from St. John, 12:32. The Rev. John H. McKee will be with us next Sunday at 11:20 a. m.

Miss Sarah Nyer is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Draby.

The social supper of Willing Workers' Hall on night was well attended. All were glad to have here friends from Saugerties, Kingston, New Grove, Fish Creek and Shultis Corners. The proceeds were over $74. The monthly meeting will be held at 10 a. m. in church hall, Lanesboro at noon. Visitors welcome.

Miss Dora A. Snyder has returned to her duties in Saugerties. The Misses Julia and Gertrude Lamb have returned from Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee and Mr. and Mrs. Richard of New York, are spending a few days at their residence here.

Alex. Polton spent Sunday in the Grove at David Vaughn's.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while it goes on to the stomach.

Is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist for Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

HIGHLAND

Highland, Nov. 8.—Friday proved to be club day, a very enthusiastic membership being present. When the gavel fell from the hands of the president, Mrs. Suzanne E. Decker, all knew that it was the signal for devotional exercises which were conducted by the Rev. F. A. Coons, pastor of the First M. E. Church, after which business was taken up. Over 50 were present and all subjects touched upon were of interest and of vital importance to club women. Reports of committees were encouraging and the club is accomplishing great good along certain lines. There were discussions of plans for future work and members will give personal and devoted attention to these things. Business and pleasure go hand in hand with these people and harmony is the key note. The hostesses, Mrs. Emma Davis, Miss Bertha Dimsey, Mrs. Cornelius DuBois, Mrs. Emily Brundage were untiring in their hospitality. These club members decided to hold a creamed chicken supper, Friday evening, November 23, and from their past reputation no one will want to miss it. They say "You always get what you go after." The doubtless applies to the supper, under way. A close of business, the social side was taken up and the hostesses served a good menu consisting of finger rolls, salad, pickles, jelly, fancy cake, crullers and coffee. Everyone was hungry and did justice. After social chat, adieux were said. All left for their homes and the memory of the meeting bides with them and will for some time to come.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Langdon of New Rochelle are at the home of Mrs. Mary Malloch for some time. Mrs. Malloch has been very ill but at present is gaining nicely, which is good news to her many friends.

Mrs. Louise R. Johnson is now located in the house formerly owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foster. It is now a boarding house called Highland Inn. She has been in that business for a long time and understands the business and furnishes first class meals.

Official Board of the M. E. Church was delightfully entertained Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foster. Large number present, great deal of business transacted and a tag party social time. Mrs. Foster served all delicious, ice cream, cake and coffee and the men were very appreciative of the kind hospitality.

Several residents of this place will go south after holidays for the winter.

Miss Ada Van Nostrand has rooms and is living in the house of Mrs. James Leonard.

Mr. and Mrs. George Evert will soon have their new addition on their house completed. F. L. Metcalf has been doing the work.

C. E. Baldwin, who spent the summer at Lake Mohonk, is now at home on Maple avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foster returned Monday from a fine motor trip to Rutherford, N. J., where they spent the week end with relatives of Mrs. Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Fass of Oliveville and Miss Bertha Dimsey of this place motored to Newburgh Sunday and called on friends.

Captain R. H. Decker was a guest Sunday of Mrs. B. Harper in Clintondale.

Chester Atkins is improving slowly from his recent illness.

Wednesday evening the Daughters of America held their regular meeting with a large membership present. It was first nomination of officers for ensuing term. Second nomination will take place November 21. Election comes in December and installation in January. After lodge duties were completed a masquerade took place and some fine and grotesque costumes were noted. There was a large crowd in attendance. The room was decorated with orange and black lanterns. An orchestra consisting of piano, violin mandolin and banjo furnished delightful music, which every one present enjoyed and complimented them highly. When masks were removed it was astonishing how fine people were disguised. A lovely time was spent. Games and dancing, and the committee refreshments served sandwiches, potato salad, jelly, pickles, home made cake and delicious coffee.

The treasury was enriched with a nice sum for future needs and all felt they were doing a kind act to help on the good work of this patriotic order.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wadlin have as their guest their son from Brooklyn. Music Study Club met Tuesday with Mrs. George Gandy. All had a pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. Amelia Elmendorf has sold her house opposite Lorenson's garage to Charles Collins. Mrs. Elmendorf has bought a place in Clintondale and will move there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stall have been in New York city for a few days.

Chester Atkins and family will move from Maple avenue to Main street in the house with his brother and sister. Daniel Kurtz and family leave Wilcox avenue and will occupy the house on Maple avenue vacated by the Atkins family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cornell will move in their new house this month off Vineyard avenue. They have a very pretty and convenient bungalow with six rooms and bath. There seems to be quite some changing around here.

THE VLY.

The Vly, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Estira Robinson of Ellenville is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Luther Trowbridge, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Boynton of Greenwich, Conn., has returned home, after spending a few days at Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Palen's and Mr. and Mrs. James Palen's.

At the Vly Church Sunday, November 11, at 3 o'clock an Armistice Day service will be held.

Charles Osterhout of Highland was the guest of his uncle, Moses Van Demark, over Sunday last.

Mrs. Arnold Fedde is spending a week in New York.

CITY FATHERS DISCUSS LEAKY ROOF, SHOWER BATHS, BUSES AND STREETS

Hold Up Klemm's Bus Petition When Aldermen Learn That Ritch & Wortman are Refused Permission by Saugerties—To Borrow $30,000 in Anticipation of Collection of Taxes—Aldermen Discuss Many Matters.

The leaky roof on the city hall; shower baths for the police department; Klemm's bus petition; the operation of a one-man trolley service to Kingston Point, and resolutions providing for enough work to keep the street forces busy for a year kept the common council busy at the regular monthly meeting held Thursday evening at the city hall. All of the aldermen were present with the exception of Alderman Kullmann.

Klemm's Bus Petition.
City Clerk Doremus read a petition from Edward G. Klemm of Saugerties asking permission to operate a bus line from Saugerties to Mt. Marion, Ruby, Legg's Mills and Kingston and return. City Clerk Doremus stated that Klemm had been operating over this proposed route since last July.

What Saugerties Did.
Alderman Ralph Mann said that he understood the town board of Saugerties had refused permission to Ritch & Wortman to operate a bus line in Saugerties. The common council some time ago granted this bus line permission to operate over the route Klemm seeks permission for. He believed that if Saugerties refused Ritch & Wortman permission to operate over the streets of Saugerties that the council should refuse Klemm permission to operate over Kingston streets.

Dr. Van Wageningen of the First ward said he did not think that was the right attitude to take, and moved that Klemm's petition be granted. Alderman Mann said that the common council had been granting permission to bus lines to operate over Kingston's streets so that the bus owners could apply to the public service commission. If Klemm was granted permission he would be in a position to go before the commission. On the other hand by the town board refusing permission to Ritch and Wortman to operate in Saugerties they were not in a position to go to the public service commission. For that reason he amended that Klemm's petition be tabled until the next meeting.

Dr. Van Wageningen withdrew his motion and the Mann amendment was put as the motion and adopted.

To Borrow $30,000.
Mayor Crane sent in a communication stating that the moneys due the city from mortgage tax and bank share taxes would not be collectible until the last of December and early in January and for that reason recommended that the common council give the usual authorization to borrow a sum not to exceed $30,000 to carry on the city's business. This is done every year, and the usual stock resolution covering the matter was introduced by Alderman Martin and adopted.

Boards Need Funds.
Applications were received from the fire board for appropriation of $2,912 to pay for new fire apparatus not included in the budget; from the board of health for $1,907.79, which had been expended in holding the smallpox situation in the last summer in check; and the board of charity commission for $2,875 for the new heating plant being installed at the city home. All of the requests were granted by the council.

Wierbach's Claim.
Attorney Frank W. Brooks sent in a claim from C. C. Wierbach for $151.13 which he had been forced to expend for what he claimed was the negligence of the city in not properly maintaining a sewer in Ardsley street. The claim was referred to the board of public works.

Raven's Bill Audited.
The bill of F. A. Raven of Albany for expert testimony before the state franchise board of $935 was taken from the table and audited. This bill was in connection with Mr. Raven's services in inspecting the Wilbur bridge of the West Shore railroad which the railroad claimed was assessed too high. The attorney general had engaged Mr. Raven and had approved the bill.

City Hall Roof Leaks.
Alderman Mann of the building committee moved that rule 11, which allowed the committee to expend a sum not larger than $25 be suspended so that the committee could go ahead and have the city hall roof repaired.

Alderman Mann said that the roof was badly in need of repairs in places and called upon Superintendent Edward Luedtke of the city hall to explain the matter to the council.

How Water Was Caught.
Superintendent Luedtke stated that last winter the water seeped into the upper floor of the city hall in such quantities that it had been necessary to purchase all the receptacles possible to catch the flow from the leaky roof. The new floor in the city engineer's office on the top floor had been ruined by the water and the blue print room had been in such condition that all of the blue prints had to be removed to another part of the building. The matter had been reported to the building committee and had dragged along all summer, but nothing had been done. The roof should be repaired at once. After considerable discussion the council finally decided that as something should be done at once that the rule be suspended and the committee empowered to go ahead and have the leaks fixed.

Shower Baths For Cops.
Alderman Macholdt introduced a resolution that the council go on record as approving the setting aside of a room on the lower floor of the city hall for the installation of shower baths for the police department.

"Why not use the city engineer's office if it leaks so in the winter?" suggested Alderman Ray Everett with a smile.

There has been some talk of the police using the old board of health room on the lower floor for gym purposes.

Alderman Macholdt's resolution was put to a vote and the council went on record as favoring shower baths.

Some Special Assessments.
Reports were received from the board of public works of the completion of the Johnston avenue sewer at a cost of $763.66, of which amount $572.74 is to be paid by property owners; and of the Tremper avenue sewer at a cost of $945.93 of which amount $709.45 is to be paid by property owners. The reports were adopted and referred to the city assessor to take the necessary steps in fixing the special assessments.

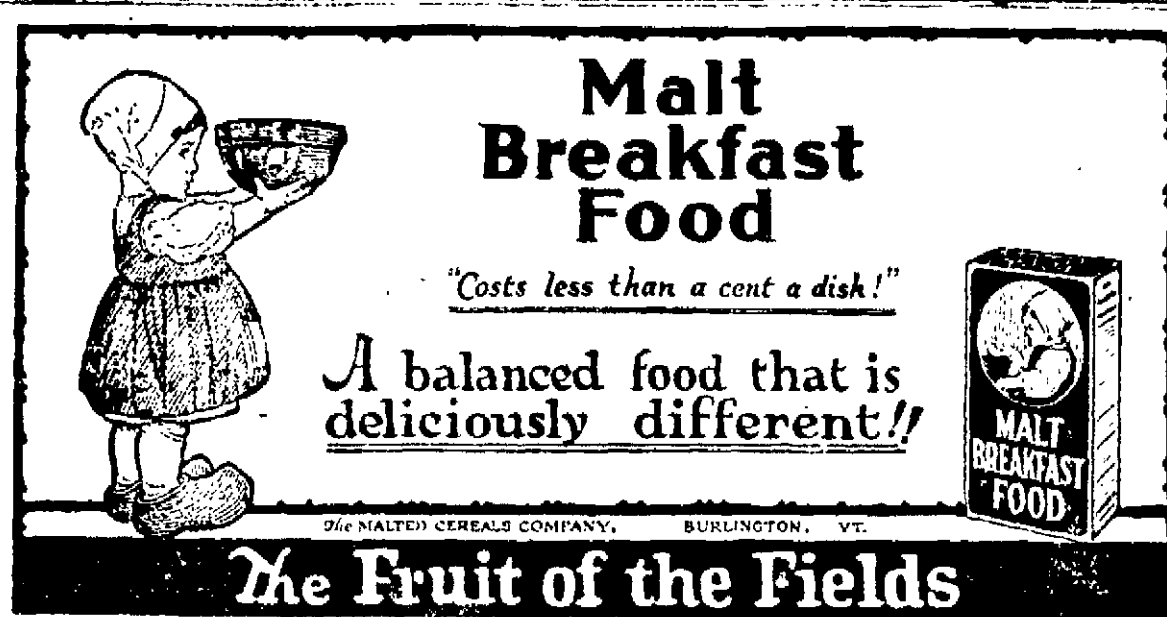

To Acquire Lands.
The board of public works reported that the public service commission had entered an order for the elimination of the Cornell street railroad crossing and providing for the construction of a new street parallel to and west of the tracks from Cornell street to Manor avenue. This street is to be 40.5 feet in width.

In order to build the new street it will be necessary to require land owned by the Lace Mills and the Cornell estate. The council adopted the report and took the first step to acquire the land. The property owners are given until December 4 to file with the city any claims they may have.

One-Man Trolley Service.
Alderman Martin introduced a resolution that Corporation Counsel Walter N. Gill file with the council data covering the right of the trolley road relative to its maintaining a one-man trolley service between Abraya street and Kingston Point, and whether it is in violation of the trolley road's franchise.

Alderman Martin and Alderman Keating did not favor this one-man trolley service, and said it worked a hardship on those living in that section.

The matter was referred to the corporation counsel to investigate and report.

Resolutions Introduced.
The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards for action:

By Alderman Keating—that sidewalk of Newark Line and Cement Company on the Strand, near Pumpkins street be repaired; that incandescent light be placed at head of Willow street; that incandescent light on East Strand, near Sycamore street, be placed on Washington street, near railroad; that sewer on East Union and Gill streets be cleaned.

Alderman Cashman—that petition of property owners on Stephan street for extension of sewer in that street be approved by board of public works; that incandescent light be placed at Derrenbacher and Fairly streets.

Alderman Breichert—that city engineer prepare approximate estimate of cost of construction of sewer on Albany avenue from Manor avenue to city line and report findings to council; that sewer be constructed on Flatbush avenue, from Elmendorf street to West Shore tracks; that a water main be laid in Clarion avenue; that Foxhall avenue at Manor be placed in passable condition.

Alderman Joy—that leaves in Sixth ward be taken up; that are light be placed at Hasbrouck avenue and East Union street; that sewer at Broadway and Meadow street be repaired.

Alderman Martin—that board of public works take steps to flood part of Forsyth Park for skating pond for youngsters this winter; that are light be placed on Janet street, between Washington avenue and Elmendorf street and incandescent light discontinued; that are light be placed on Pearl street, between Green and Washington avenue, and incandescent light discontinued; that incandescent lights be placed at corner of Boulder avenue and Fairview avenue and at Merritt and Fairview avenues.

Alderman VanWageningen—that new light be placed on Clinton avenue at John street; that a suitable building be erected at head of Wall and North Front streets for traffic police on duty there.

Alderman Buchholtz—that gutters be relaid on Van Deusen street, and on Henry street, between Sterling and Prospect streets; that holes in Sterling street be filled.

The council audited a number of bills and then adjourned.

First-Footing in Scotland.

First-footing is a Scottish custom still existing. Late in the evening of Hogmanay, December 31, in each year, thousands of the common people assemble in the vicinity of the Edinburgh Tron church to ascertain on good evidence when the new year commences, says the Detroit News. When the clock is about to strike twelve they cheer so loudly that the strokes are not heard. Instantly that it has finished they depart for the purpose of first-footing—that is, each one tries to be the first person that year to cross the threshold of his friend's house and wish him the compliments of the season. It is considered bad luck to go into a house empty-handed, and good luck is supposed to attend the resident whose "first foot" is dark-complexioned.

Punch and Judy.

The origin of this comic puppet show has been the subject of much discussion. Punch has been identified with Pontius Pilate, Judy with Judas the betrayer, or with the Jews, and the play with one of the old "Mysteries." This notion is entirely without foundation. The name Punch is simply a contraction of Punchinello (for Punchinello, the buffoon of Neapolitan comedy), while Judy is probably derived from Judith, at one time a common woman's name. It is said that a character similar to Punch is found in the puppet-plays of Italy, Egypt, Persia, India, China and Japan. Punch and Judy shows were introduced into London in 1666 by an Italian, who erected a booth near Charing Cross for their performance.—Kansas City Star.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

NANCY'S PRIZE

Now, Nancy had been taken by a friend to see an exhibition of show of paintings in a nearby city.

Nancy loved paintings, and when she grew up she hoped she might be able to do one with her drawing, and the lady who took Nancy knew this.

And once again Nancy was invited to go.

This time she was shown where the children studied, for on Saturday morning small children all came to this big city building where art was studied and where pictures were to be seen, and where many wonderful exhibitions of shows were held.

How interested Nancy was in seeing children—some were very small and young, lots younger than Nancy, and they were working, too, with their chubby little hands.

They were making rabbits and dogs and kittens out of clay!

And what fun they were having. They would name their clay dogs and cats and rabbits and then they would make other animals out of the same clay!

That day, too, Nancy was also shown a wonderful old Bible which was on exhibition and which was filled with pictures. In fact, almost all the Bible stories were told by pictures, for this Bible had been used way, way back in the Middle Ages when many people could not read. Those who could not read could then become familiar with many of the Bible stories in this way.

Nancy had a beautiful time and the lady took Nancy to lunch at a big restaurant and Nancy had such fine things to eat—and she was much pleased because she had warm rolls for lunch instead of plain bread, which was a great and exceptional treat.

After lunch, when it was time for Nancy to be taken back home again, her mind was full of something she had read about a very few days before. She knew that there had been offered a prize for the best drawing in a drawing competition. The first prize was to be five dollars.

Then there was to be another prize of two dollars, and a third prize of one dollar.

The rules were that any boy or girl under fourteen could try for the prizes, and that the drawing was to be done in pencil or in ink, and that the age of the boy or girl would be taken into consideration in giving the prizes.

Nancy had almost forgotten about that prize competition, and now that she had been thinking so much of drawing and of painting she remembered once more about the prize competition.

Yes, she would try, too. It did no harm to try. If she got the first prize she would be able to get a new camp suit she wanted so much.

If she got the second prize she would be able to get—oh, there were so many things to be bought with two dollars, and with the third prize of one dollar, too.

Out of Clay.

And if she didn't get any prize at all she would be even more anxious to try the next one that came along and try to win whenever she could.

Then she thought more about the camp suit and she decided that if she got the prize of five dollars she would get a present for everyone in the family—her mother and her daddy and Nick and herself, and then there'd be a dollar over if she divided it in that way!

With that dollar that was over she'd give a party with her very own money and ask all her friends to come. She'd pay for the goodies herself instead of asking her mother or daddy to pay for them, as she always had done.

But here she was day dreaming and this wasn't winning the prize. Doubtless others were dreaming as she was, and they, too, were planning how to spend the money if they made it!

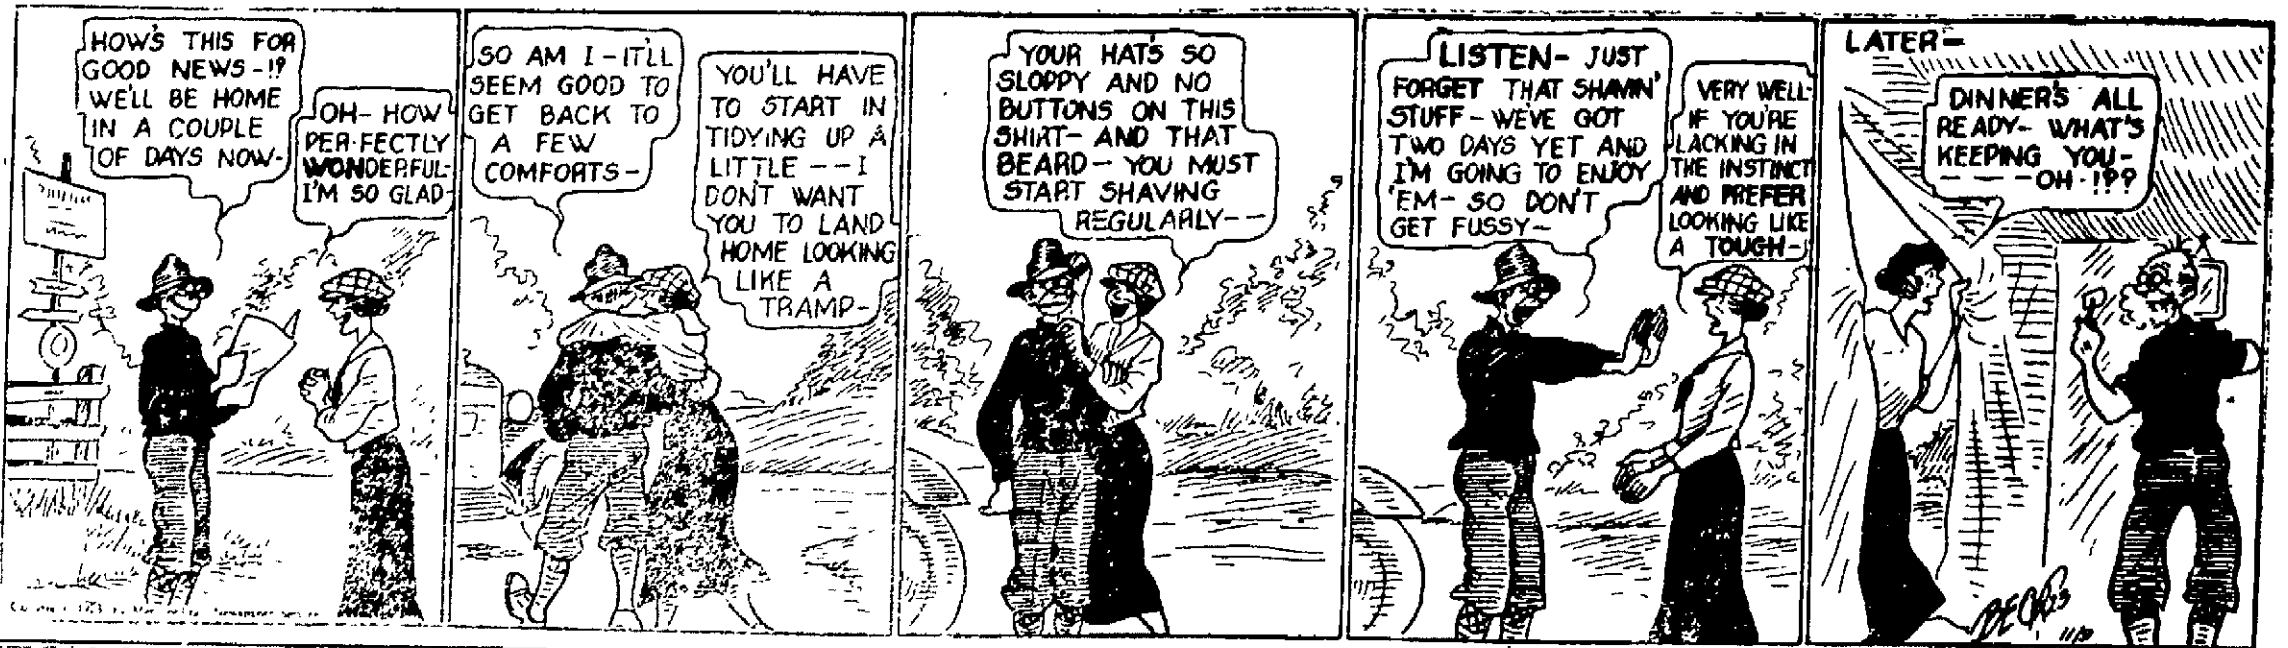

Then she settled down to work. She drew picture after picture, and then she did more and more work on one until she was quite satisfied with it, and then she went off.

And do you know that Nancy won the first prize? And how happy she was, and how happy everyone in the family was, and Nancy gave her party and divided her prize just as she had planned to do.

But Nancy said she knew the reason she had won the prize had been because her very heart and soul had been full of the love of drawing and of art from having gone to the beautiful art exhibition and in seeing what good work so many, many other children did.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

The game season is upon us with all kinds of fish, flesh and fowl to add variety to the meat diet.

Pot Roasted Rabbit.—Dress and clean two rabbits and disjoint the pieces ready for serving. Cover with cold water to which a tablespoonful of salt and one of vinegar have been added and let stand several hours. Drain, wipe dry and roll in seasoned flour. If the rabbits are at all tough parboil before rolling in the flour. Put into a deep iron kettle with an iron cover, add a slice of pork fat and try out the fat, cook slowly, tightly covered. If the rabbit becomes dry add a tablespoonful of water occasionally, just to keep from burning. Chicken, duck, or in fact any fowl or game cooked in this way, is tender, well flavored and delicious.

O'Brien Potatoes.—Fry three cupfuls of cubed potatoes in deep fat drain and sprinkle with salt. Cool one slice of onion in one-half tablespoonful of butter three minutes, remove the onion, add three canned plumettes finely minced. When well heated add the potatoes; stir until well mixed turn into a serving dish and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Stewed Chicken With Oyster Sauce.—Wash a pint of oysters, using one-fourth of a cupful of cold water. Reserve the liquor, heat strain and dump. Remove the oysters and take a sauce of one-fourth of a cupful of butter, one-fourth cupful of flour, the oyster liquor and one cupful of the chicken stock. Bring to the boiling point, add the oysters, season well and serve hot at once with the stewed chicken.

Clear Mushroom Soup.—Brush one-half pound of mushrooms, finely chop the stems and break the caps into small pieces. Add three pints of consommé; bring gradually to the simmering point and simmer for thirty minutes. Cool and clear with one white and the shells of two eggs. Just before serving add a tablespoonful of pineapple juice or any good flavored fruit juice.

NEW YORK FARMS ARE IN DEMAND

Black Satin Plaited, With Chiffon Bertha

State College of Agriculture Issues Pamphlet Giving Suggestions to Prospective Purchasers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Because of the nearness to markets and as a result of the extensive advertising of cheap land in New York, the attention of many persons in cities, and of farmers in the middle and western states, has been drawn to New York as a region in which farms may profitably be bought.

In answer to inquiries from prospective purchasers, the state college of agriculture issued a few years ago an illustrated bulletin giving suggestions to purchasers of farm lands in New York state. The demand for this bulletin has been so great that a recent reprint has been made, and it is now available to those who are interested in the subject.

This bulletin gives the reasons for the wide range of prices of New York land, tells where the best land may be found, and gives impartial advice as to the types of soils. This advice is not given in a highly technical way but in simple understandable terms. The bulletin says, for example, that "where the common white dairy, the devil's paintbrush or orange brkwweed, and sorrel, are found abundantly, the lime supply in the soil is low."

Land prices, the bulletin says, are as high in New York as in any other part of the eastern United States. The best fruit and trucking lands, favorably situated as to market command the highest prices—even as much as a thousand dollars an acre. Other farm land may be had for as little as ten dollars an acre. The bulletin says that the land command for a medium to good price generally affords the best business proposition. Those who would like a copy of these suggestions to purchasers of farm lands in New York may obtain it by sending a postcard to the state college of agriculture at Ithaca asking for E 23.

NEW CONSERVATION CENTER AT SARANAC LAKE.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 9.—The conservation commission has established a branch office at Saranac Lake which will be headquarters for the commission's game protection and forestry operations in Essex, Franklin, Clinton, Warren and part of St. Lawrence counties. District Ranger J. H. Hopkins, who is in charge of the fire preventive work in Clinton, Franklin and parts of Essex and St. Lawrence counties, Game Inspector R. L. Burmaster, whose game protection district comprises Franklin, Clinton, Essex and Warren counties, and Confidential Agent J. H. LaPan will all be located in the new offices which will be the center of the commission's activities covering a large and important part of the Adirondacks.

Did Robin Hood Exist?

There is practically undeniable evidence that the Robin Hood of fanciful literature was anything but a creature of popular fancy, although most authorities believe that the Robin Hood legends were probably originally based on some grain of truth. Robin Hood is represented in legend and ballad as a noted, possibly titled outlaw who lived in the time of Richard I, of England. With his followers, all of whom were expert archers, he rode about the country robbing the wealthy to give to the poor. Though he killed the king's deer he was loyal in other respects. He is painted as a dashing and gallant knight, who offered protection to women and always championed the cause of the weak.

Collapsible Ladder.

A collapsible orchard ladder, made in two sections, is described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. The upper section of the two-part ladder is disposed at an oblique angle to the lower one, and terminates in a single rail. As this rail is sheathed, no damage to the bark is possible when it is adjusted between the limbs of a fruit tree, and the fruit picker can pick over a considerable range without having to descend and shift the ladder to a new position.

Sartorial Anachronism.

Actors of a few generations ago appeared in Shakespearean plays in the dress of their own period, the mer wearing wigs of the Georgian period and the women full crinoline gowns.—London Answers.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Showing black satin plaited afternoon dress, featuring deep ochre chiffon bertha.

Arranging Things to Make Home Attractive

Heaven's first law may be met in the placing of the furniture of a room by keeping in mind the simple principle that there must be a dominant note in this just as there is in music. All phases of interior decoration are controlled by this principle. Without its application there is the worst kind of disorder, although we may become so careless with ourselves and so hardened in our sensibilities that we are totally unaware of the jargon we speak every day in our homes.

The piano or the fireplace is usually the dominant note in the furnishing of the living-room. If you have both in a rectangular room the fireplace takes precedence over the piano. If there is an alcove in your room the piano may easily be given the prominence it deserves. With fireplace and piano both in the room it is generally best to place the piano opposite the fireplace if possible. This makes a good balance. In any event both should not be on one side of the room unless it is the inward side. Even there it is not usually quite satisfactory.

The table should be against the wall. It looks well arranged in a group with a picture and a chair. The picture should be of a character that will look well with flowers. This also requires that it be placed high enough to avoid being hidden in part by any decoration that may be placed on the table. By all means have a couch that is comfortable both to sit on and to lie on. It should be so placed that the head receives sufficient light during the day and after sunset for anyone to read without injury to his eyes.

Each easy chair should also be placed with reference to good light, mostly in relation to artificial light, since sufficient evening light is not so apt to be so widespread as in daylight. Although reading-chairs may in many cases be well arranged in relation to wall lights and to the perfect satisfaction of the reader, nothing is quite so good as a floor or table lamp. The light from such sources is not only usually better, but it may be moved to suit one's convenience, and in addition is very artistic, and therefore gives a very pleasing effect in a room. The easy chair and floor-lamp group is still further increased in convenience if a small table is added to it. Frequently an "end" table is the best.

Youth Is Emphasized in Kiddies' Garments

Just because their years are few in number let no one for a moment suppose that our youngest members of society do not take a very definite stand in the matter of clothes. And she is indeed a clever mother who adroitly manages to dress her small daughter with good taste and appropriateness and apparently gives in to the likes and dislikes of a determined small person of the feminine gender.

Happily the rule of simplicity is the one to follow in choosing children's clothes. But for all their extreme simplicity it is really amazing how very varied and very individual are the modes for the modern child.

In the first place there is the matter of color. Every shade that appears in grown-up costumes is also used for diminutive frocks and coats, but even the most intense shades are so cleverly handled that youth is emphasized.

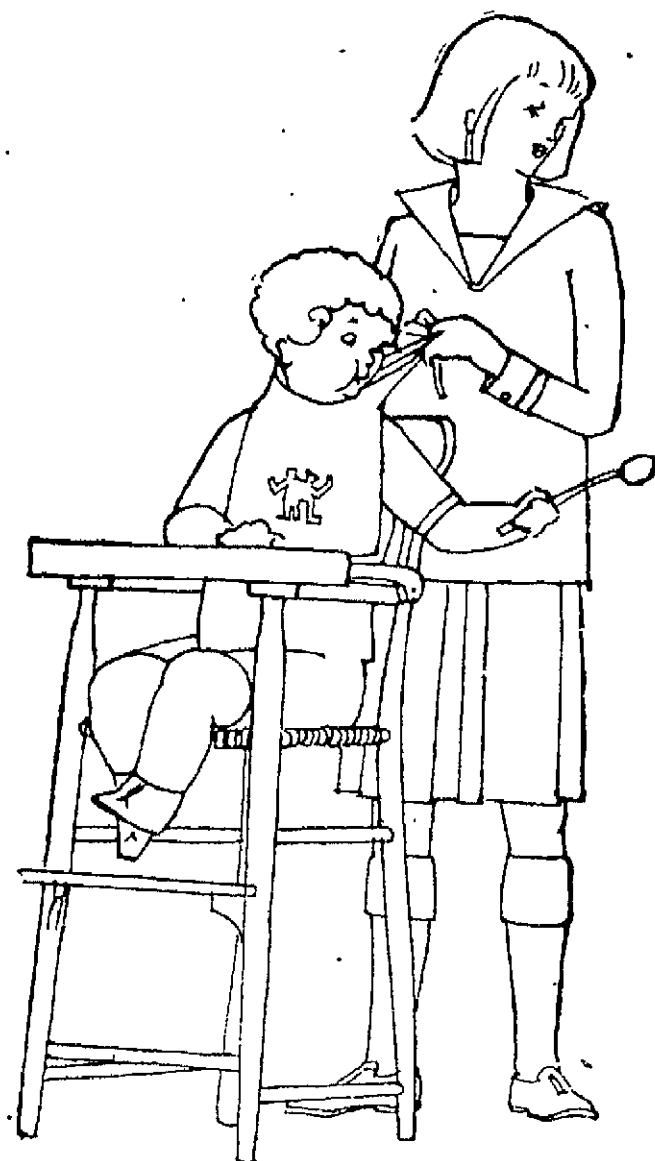

The New Circular Frill.

It would be interesting to know the feminine reaction to the strange circular frill appearing around the bottom of the new skirt. At any rate, it has been eagerly pounced upon by the most extravagant dresses on the screen.

Cannot Oust It.

Nothing can oust the overblouse, which, in many cases, is the making or marring of a three-piece suit. At present the overblouse is beaded, preferably with steel beads.

Cod Liver Oil Now In

Tasteless Tablets

GREATEST FLESH BUILDER

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy, disgusting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out. Medical science progresses rapidly and now you can get at your drugists real, genuine cod liver oil in "pearl-coated" tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamin food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another 10 pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, age 9, 12 pounds in seven months and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—your druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only 50 cents a box.—Advertisement

WASP BUILDS JUC

Constructs and Provisions Home of Great Durability.

Living Food Is Stored Away in the Nest for Use of the Young Ones.

The very mention of the word "wasp" too often inspires us with a feeling of dread. But more intimate contact—not necessarily with the stinging insect—brings about a deep regard for their interesting in themselves and for their rights as well.

Respect those rights, and we need have no fear of being stung. Besides, such fears are often folly, for many wasps cannot inflict a sting more painful than the prick of a pin.

Just as the daily life and works of a man command our admiration, so also do the lives and works of the wasps. The social wasps live together in peaceful communistic groups, in a common dwelling built by their united efforts, and there rear their young with extreme care.

The solitary wasps live apart, each living his or her own life independent of others of the species, except at the moment of wooing. For themselves they do not bother to build houses, but for their young they construct and provision homes that resemble jugs of great utility.

Let us watch the potter at her work. Selecting a site which instinct tells her is suited to her needs, she flies away on noiseless wings to a path, roadside, or other locality where she must scrape together a tiny pile of fine dust.

Now she busies herself making cement by moistening the dust with her saliva. The resulting mud is thoroughly kneaded, shaped into a miniature ball, and whisked away to the chosen site.

Pressed tightly against the twig, the cement soon sets, becoming both hard and surprisingly waterproof. The wasp is away mixing more material. Returning she adds another ball to the first. Again and again she comes with fresh supplies and proceeds quickly about her work.

A circular wall rises upon the foundation already laid. The whole looks like an acorn cap. As she continues the walls rise, curving toward a common center. Behold, an elfin fish globe!

Well might the work stop now, but the builder shows her artist's eye as she proceeds with her task. A graceful neck is fashioned about the globe's mouth, and a delicate flange is added, darning off rufflike around it. She has finished. A fat little jug or vase of surprising symmetry and beauty waits to be filled.

Our tiny builder, like other solitary wasps, provisions her nest with an abundance of fresh meat. Yes, more than fresh. It is alive! Putrid flesh would cause death.

Usually the victims of solitary wasps are stung in the majority of their nerve centers, and thus are rendered helpless, although life continues for weeks at forward.

When the nest is sufficiently provisioned with living food, the wasp lays an egg somewhere in the mass of paralyzed monsters. From it there hatches a tiny, helpless, grublike creature which proceeds to devour the nearest paralyzed giant. When all the food is consumed, this larva spins a cocoon; pupates takes a long nap, and then emerges as a perfect wasp and an expert hunter.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Undecided.

Old Zeph Dougan sat on a log near the bridge one Sunday morning, casting anxious glances at an uncertain sky. His willow fishpole and can of bait lay at his feet.

Before he had quite decided on the weather the minister came by, having taken a short cut owing to the fear of a sudden shower.

"Well, Brother Zeph," he asked, "is you gwine to catch or is you gwine to catch?"

"Ah dunno yet," said Zeph. "Ah'm jest a-wastlin' wif ma conscience."—Judge.

Why Not Find Out?

Two old bachelors were having a conversation on a street car filled with flappers. "What do they call that brilliant red stuff?" asked one.

"Lip rouge," replied the other. "They didn't have it in our day."

"No, they didn't. But it is kind of pretty."

The second old boy leaned over and said cautiously: "Do you know, Hiram, I sometimes wonder how it tastes?"

Then they both grinned sheepishly and turned to the market reports.

Power of a Smile.

A young woman carelessly tossed an apple core out of the automobile she was riding in and a motorcycle cop who was speeding past received it full in the face. He stopped and turned to her with a scowl, and the young woman had visions of an interview with the magistrate. But she smiled at him and her smile won his heart, for he said with a grin: "Lady, I'm glad you are not a bricklayer," and renouncing his whiff he sped away.—Boston Transcript.

SAYING THE WRONG THING

How "Cheerful Idiots" Add to World's Woes by Acting Just Opposite to What He Should.

There are times when Jones—that name will do—makes my angry passions rise. I know it's wrong of course, but I can't help it. He's always saying things that somehow or other get on my nerves.

Put on his defense, I expect he would claim that he was a cheerful soul, of the type which always sees the silver lining to the cloud. To that I should not that his cheerfulness irritates. It rules an already troubled and annoyed fellow being very much the wrong way.

In nine cases out of ten sympathy is required rather than cheerfulness. Sympathy soothes, Jones' cheerfulness irritates. He always says the wrong thing at the wrong time.

The other week I lost a favorite dog; naturally I was upset. Most people would have expressed regret, but Jones remarked with great cheerfulness that I could soon get another pup. That cheered me not at all.

A gate left open let cows into my garden, and the brutes walked all over my bulbs. Smith was awfully sympathetic; he knows I'm a bulb enthusiast. Jones, however, told me I ought to get a spring fixed to the gate so that it would close automatically. Good advice, but it merely made me wild.

When my little daughter got appendicitis it was the sympathy of various friends that helped me through an anxious time. Jones very kindly told me that it was just as well for a child to have it, because one couldn't get appendicitis twice.

I left in the train a parcel of groceries my wife had asked me to get for her. Smith was sympathetic and asked if his wife could do anything. But Jones cheerfully remarked that very likely somebody would find it who needed the stuff more than I did!

I dare not, of course, ask poor old "X," who lost his wife a little while ago, what Jones said to him, but it wouldn't surprise me in the least if his cheerful comment was: "Buck up, old man! There are thousands of other women in the world who would jump at the chance of marrying you!"

Are you like Jones? If so make a change. You are in the same class as those supremely irritating folk who delight in applying the "cold-you-so" salt to the wounds of their friends.

Two Isles of Pines.

There are two islands called the "Isle of Pines." One is a French prison colony southeast of New Caledonia and the other is a famous vacation resort south of Cuba.

The latter island belongs to Cuba, and is the source of many grapefruits. The small isle was shunned for some time after its discovery by Columbus because it became infested with Caribbean pirates. Later under Spanish rule in Cuba, it led a sleepy, isolated existence and was used for Spanish convict settlements. Most of the prisoners were there persons who had plotted the overthrow of Spanish rule in Cuba. During American control, after the Spanish-American war, citrus orchards were developed there. The island is very fertile and has a wonderful climate.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

REFORESTING MADE NEW RECORD

More Than 8,000,000 Trees Planted
This Year in State—Individuals
Heavy Buyers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 9.—More trees were shipped from the conservation commission's nurseries up to the close of the fall planting season than ever before.

The number of trees planted this year was more than double the output of last year; 8,671,907 as compared with 4,305,423.

More orders, aggregating more trees, came from individual land owners and farmers than from industrial concerns and municipalities combined. The orders from individuals totaled 3,150,952 trees with industries 1,062,200 and municipalities 1,544,920. Plantations made by state institutions and miscellaneous organizations aggregated 291,810 and 319,300 respectively. Farm owners planted 533,375 trees in 428 separate plantations distributed generally throughout the state for the purpose of demonstrating the possibilities of farm forests as a safe and profitable investment. Sixteen rural schools either started school forests or made additions to forests previously started. The schools in the town of Watson, Lewis county which three years ago started a forest whose ultimate purpose is to pay in whole or in part the cost of the schools, made their third plantation and now have twenty-four acres of young trees.

The conservation commission planted 700,000 trees on state land in the spring and 1,900,000 in the fall, the work being done by the blisters rust eradication crews. Starting September 24 after completing the season's blisters rust work and finishing on October 20, these crews planted 450,000 two-year-old Scotch pine, 150,000 two-year-old red pine, 200,000 three-year-old red pine and 200,000 three-year-old white pine. All of this planting was done on Lots 34, 51, 58, 71 and 182 in Township Ten and at the San Carlos clearing, Township 21 all in the vicinity of Saranac Lake. Lot 51 was turned over to the state a few years ago by the Trudeau Sanatorium with the understanding that the state reforest it within six years.

Ellenville county planted 75,000 new trees.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Nov. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ingalsbee and Mrs. White and father of Kingston, were Sunday guests at the home of Superintendent and Mrs. E. C. Hoerner.

Dr. Neal has purchased a new seven passenger Paige sedan through the Homer Kuhlmann agency. The car has added special features that make it one of the most complete and finest cars owned about here.

Mrs. Sarah K. Thomas spent a day or two in town first of the week, after visiting with Mrs. Ernhold at Stevensville and at Capt. Miller's in Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Schoonmaker left Wednesday for a southern trip, going first to Norfolk and probably extending their visit further south. They will be gone a couple of months. A benefit performance for George D. Cook Post of the American Legion will be given at Shadowland Theater on Monday, November 12, at both matinee and evening performances. The feature will be Wallace Reid in "Thirty Days."

Thomas J. McMullen has purchased the old John W. Morse place on Upper Canal street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Puff have returned to their home in this village, after a week spent with their daughter, Mrs. William Schoonmaker, at Bridgeport, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Potter spent the week-end at Syracuse, where on Saturday they saw the Syracuse University football team defeat Penn State by a score of 19 to 0.

The Farr brothers and Mrs. Farr left for Florida about December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. David Myers of Mechanicville and Mr. and Mrs. James Houston and son David of Middletown were visitors with James A. Myers Sunday. Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Myers' daughter was also home. Mr. Myers has been affected with grand mal epilepsy for several weeks past, that have caused him considerable pain.

Miss Irene DeVany of Ellenville, will have a story called "The One Who Suffered," in the Love Story Magazine, published November 10.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Baxter have returned home after several weeks visit with their daughter at Detroit.

Cashier Francis D. Andrews of the Home Bank, is beginning work for the erection of his new residence in Green Acres.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Garrison and two daughters spent the week-end in New York city.

Bert H. Terwilliger, in the interest of the Terwilliger Agency, has purchased of Mrs. George Devo the 16-room two-family house on Broadhead street, many years ago the home of the late William H. Devo.

Mr. G. F. Wilklow and wife will spend the winter at Southern Pines, N. C.

Frank Cox is building a new garage, with living apartments overhead, upon the Cox property on Yankee Place.

Mrs. Martin Frielewah, Sr., of Syracuse, is visiting in town, stopping with Mr. and Mrs. George Rippr.

Ellenville schools will be closed Monday on account of Armistice Day.

LOST AN AIRSHIP BARGAIN

By Mistake in Orders United States
Failed to Get Zeppelin for $110,000 in 1918.

The United States army nearly got possession of a Zeppelin of 100,000 cubic meters content in the closing months of 1918, immediately after the armistice, and the officer who cleverly put through the deal was Maj. William N. Hensley, now in the army air service and the commander at Mitchell field, New York.

Major Hensley fairly weeps when spoken to of the incident, for at the price the Germans then agreed to take for the levitation of the air the army would have secured a property worth millions for exactly $110,000. It was to have been a cash transaction at the then prevailing rates of exchange, for Hensley had been given the money to pay for the airship.

At the time Major Hensley was acting upon orders directly from the War department in Washington, but by some mistake the general staff of the American Expeditionary Force in France had not been informed of his mission. Nevertheless, he closed with the Germans, secured their signatures to a contract, and delivery would have been made but for the reported loquacity of some one in the entourage of a high American officer in Paris. Certain of the allies thus learned of the contract and protests were filed through the State department, and America lost the greatest of airship bargains. It is not unlikely but that the "slip-up" will have airing in the next congress.

"Not one word will I say for publication or otherwise upon this old Zeppelin matter," said Major Hensley the other day when asked for the details of the affair.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

TORTURED TO GAIN BEAUTY

Fashionable Parisiennes Now Have Their Noses, Eyebrows and Lips Treated by Specialists.

Parisiennes are going to such lengths to achieve beauty as quite to put in the shade the painful operation of "dimpling" (making a hole in the chin by means of a drugged needle). Many women think nothing of having their noses broken and reset in a different shape, says a Paris correspondent of the Washington Post. Others actually have the eyebrows moved upward or downward, as the fancy dictates. This necessitates a complete removal of the hair and either a false or forced growth in a different position or makeup.

One beauty expert, who undertakes to change the form of a woman's lips, has performed many operations. His latest experiment is to make the upper lip turn up, giving it an alluring pout. To do this he stretches a thin hair from the upper lip to the tip of the nose. This effect, naturally, is limited to actresses, who use it on the stage only. Some fashionable women are being laughed at for their insistence on having their cosmetics flavored.

Crow Deserves No Mercy.

The crow is generally regarded by naturalists and sportsmen as one of the most destructive robbers of birds in the country and his depredations occur chiefly during the nesting season when the young are helpless. As a result of the enormous damage caused by crows in the destruction of game and useful birds, movements have been started in several parts of the country to conduct a vigorous warfare against them. In some states there are already bounties on crows. Anti-crow clubs are being formed in localities everywhere throughout the country where the crow has become a pest. Doctor Warren, who has made extensive studies in bird life, believes that the crow is one of the worst of all destroyers and his conclusions have led him to denounce this predatory species in severe terms.

Too Much for the Hawk.

When a hawk swooped down on a barnyard at Salmon Arm, B. C., where there were a small tom cat and fox terrier, the cat sprang, landed on the bird's back and brought it to earth partly disabling it. The terrier then took a hand in the melee and both dog and cat went for the hawk, which put up a good fight. When it attacked the dog the cat would jump on it and pull it off. After a bit the cat seemed to resent the dog's interference and turned on him. While they were fighting it a farmer killed the hawk with a stick.

Old Iron Mines Closed.

The oldest iron mines in the United States, located at Sterling, N. Y., have been closed. They have been in continuous operation since 1760, and are taken from them was used to forge the famous chain that was stretched across the Hudson river in the Revolutionary war to prevent the British ships from ascending the stream. Iron for every war in which the United States ever fought has come from these mines.

Shades of Meaning.

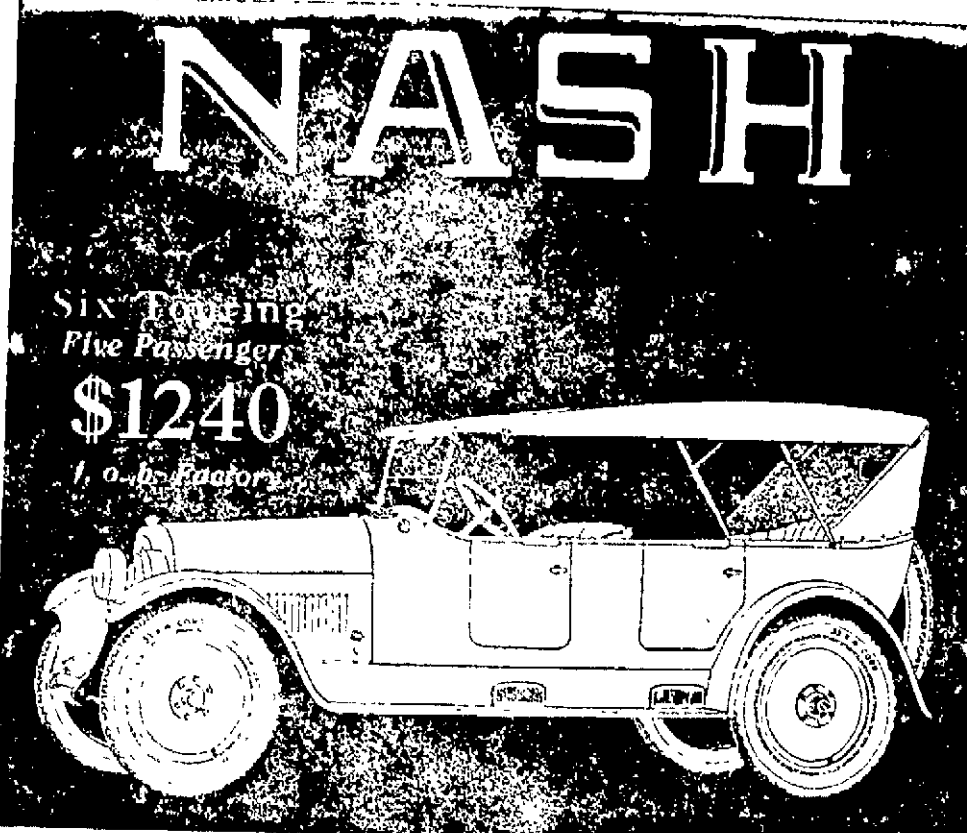

"When a man refuses to take a tip you say he lacks vision."
"Yes."
"And if he takes it and loses?"
"Then we say he lacked foresight."

No Doubt of It.

"Well, Vera, I must say I don't think it's fair to your husband to run up so many bills."
"My dear, to do his best work he needs a strong incentive."—Life.

Unfair Discrimination.

"Oh, no!" soliloquized Johnny, bitterly; "there ain't no favorites in this family. Oh, no! If I bite my finger nails I get a rap over the knuckles, but if the baby eats his whole foot they think it cute."—Ladies' Home Journal.

DR. FITE TELLS OF THE BALKANS

Czecho-Slovakia Brightest Spot in Europe, Says Junior League Lecturer—Balkans Remain Powder Magazine of Europe.

The second of the course of lectures being given by Dr. Emerson Fite of Vassar College, under the auspices of the Junior League, was delivered on Thursday afternoon at the chapel of the First Dutch Church. The usual audience was considerably augmented by the attendance of many of the women from the Home Bureau meeting. One important announcement was made before the lecture, and that was that hereafter these lectures will begin at 3:45 o'clock and not at 3:30 as have been the first two.

Recalling his very short stay in Germany last summer, because of the unpleasant and unsafe conditions there, Dr. Fite said that having to leave Germany so much sooner than he had anticipated, he went over into Czecho-Slovakia and there he found conditions quite the opposite from those in Germany. Where the Germans had been excited and depressed over the last sudden drop in their currency, and over attending conditions, the Czecho-Slovaks were happy and prosperous and possessed of a stable currency. Yet during the war and directly after they were quite as hard hit as Germany, but they did not debase their currency. They have coal and iron, their currency is good and their business good, and they are the one bright spot in Europe. Their only trouble is that their currency is too good, considering the conditions of the surrounding countries. Two years ago the dollar was worth ninety kronen, while now it is worth only thirty. They sell their finished products abroad for the same value but they bring in fewer kronen; yet, the manufacturers and merchants must pay their employees the same wages as before when there were ninety kronen instead of thirty to the dollar. But in spite of this they are prosperous and happy.

Visiting Vienna, Dr. Fite found the city full of travelers, and also happy and prosperous. The stores are full of good commodities. Two years ago the place was funeral. But all this has been changed by an effort on the part of the League of Nations which secured for Austria an outside loan, thus making possible a new currency, which at least is stabilized. However, their prices are so high, that Dr. Fite doubted their retail sales as being heavy, thought their wholesale ones must be as Vienna is the market place for the whole Balkan peninsula. Dr. Fite thought that if, through the League of Nations and a new currency, Austria could become thus prosperous, Germany could too, and he prophesied that this very thing would finally take place when it can be found possible to get that outside loan; that is when countries can be found who will make it.

The speaker also visited Hungary, but found it not so well off as Austria for it is still a monarchy but without a monarch; suffering from an unstable currency and the loss of much very valuable territory, especially that which was granted to Czecho-Slovakia. Belgrade he found being beautifully rebuilt or in the act of rebuilding.

When Dr. Fite went south to Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria, he was impressed by the agricultural prosperity. And there he learned one reason why the American farmers are hard pressed today. The Bulgarians are raising their own crops of Indian corn and of American tobacco, large crops at that, and do not need to buy from America. The farmers in the Balkans have been selling their crops for big prices since 1914, but their scale of living has not increased, so they have amassed much wealth. But the speaker noted a strange fact in that connection. The Balkan peasants like those of many other countries do not trust the banks, and so a very considerable amount of wealth of Europe is hidden by the peasantry of the different nations. The Bulgarian farms are well kept and their buildings in a prosperous condition, and the speaker said he seemed to feel that the Bulgarians were the coming people of Europe, for their people are hard workers, not given to dissipation.

Another interesting feature of Dr. Fite's lecture was his description of his visit to Constantinople, a strange city, with few book stores, and those exclusively for the sale of English and French books, as the Turks have no literature, practically. Neither do they have factories to amount to anything; only a few small ones, which manufacture shoes and soap. And the lecture found it a city of incessant noises. He learned from his guide that conscripted soldiers during the war, could, if they had the price buy themselves out of that army at almost any time, so that continually there were thousands of young men of service age wandering about the city who should have been fighting. As bribery accomplished that fact, it also made it almost impossible to serve any sort of official papers without bribing all concerned with their preparation and service and the speaker thought that fact spoke much for the political capacity of the Turk.

Another thing that he noted was that absolutely all of the shops in Constantinople, in fact, all of the business done there is carried on by either Armenians or Greeks, because the Turks are too lazy and too ignorant. Under those circumstances, what will become of Turkey and of Constantinople if all of the Armenians and Greeks are run out of the country? Dr. Fite devoted considerable time to a discussion of the

No More Peters.

There are more churches dedicated to St. Peter than to any other saint. But there has never been a Pope Peter! The custom, according to which Popes change their Christian names on their elevation, was introduced in A. D. 884 by Peter III Porca. He felt that it would be presumptuous to have himself styled Peter the Second, so he took the name of Sergius the Second. Following in the same line of sentiment, no Pope has ever retained or assumed the name of Peter.

THE NATION'S DEFENDERS

By JOHN T. ADAMS,

Chairman of the Republican National Committee

The nation's defenders have always had to turn to the Republican party for the greater part of the aid and relief they secured from the federal government.

The Civil war veterans are well aware of this fact. Spanish war veterans, entitled to federal aid, are receiving it because of Republican legislation.

The first effective effort to take care of the ex-service men of the World war was the enactment of the Sweet bill by the Republican Congress, which combined and coordinated all agencies handling ex-service men's relief and aid into one organization known as the Veterans' bureau. Since then all legislation affecting ex-service men has been enacted by Republicans.

Up to and including the appropriations for the current fiscal year, Republican Congresses have appropriated $2,282,579,000 for aid but they are provided a free amount of money the Republican Congress has appropriated each year for support of the Veterans' bureau has been greater than that appropriated for any function of the government, with the single exception of the amount appropriated to meet the interest on the public debt. It has approximated one-fifth of the total annual federal appropriations.

By virtue of Republican legislation, and under Republican administration, there is now in existence a system of hospitalization for ex-service men which is pronounced by medical authorities to be the most complete and the most modern in existence in the world. There are at present 45 hospitals with a capacity of over 26,000. There are in construction in various parts of the country 20 more with a capacity of over 5,800.

Not only are these hospitals perfect in the matter of equipment, but the personnel consists of men and women of the highest type of scientific, professional and medical skill who are devoting their entire lives to the relief of those who suffered by reason of their service during the World war.

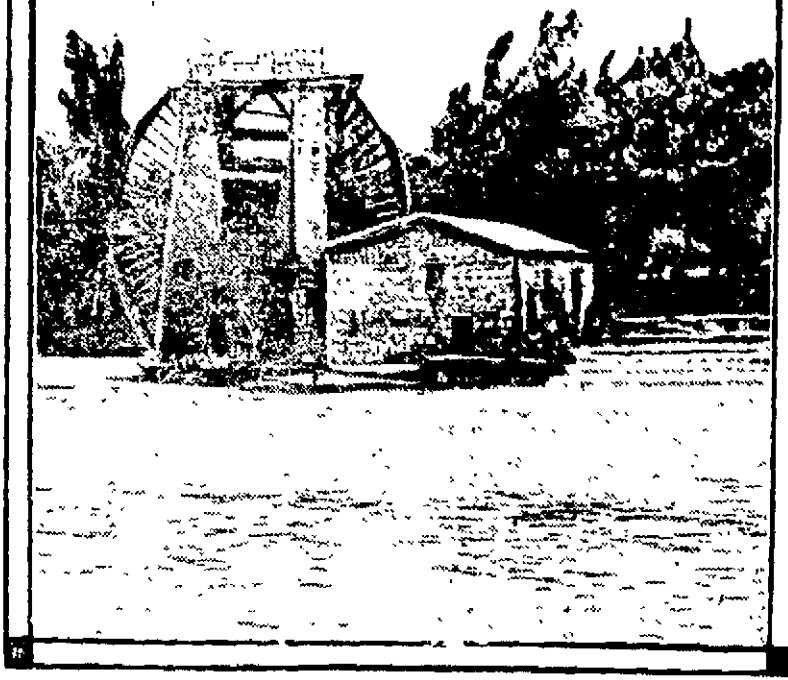

The work of rehabilitation of ex-service men has reached a point of perfection in America, under Republican administration, that is the marvel of the world. Nearly 47,000 ex-service men have completed their training and all who desire have been placed in positions. More than half of those so placed are earning more than they earned in trades or professions prior to their entering the war. Seventy-four thousand men are undergoing training.

Under this Republican administration men are not only trained to take their places again in the ranks of self-supporting citizens, but they are provided a free employment service, which cooperates with industrial and mercantile concerns to guarantee rehabilitation to get on their feet.

Approximately 1,000,000 disabled ex-service men have been handled by the Veterans' bureau since its creation by the Republican Congress and compensation to disabled ex-service men or their dependents is now being paid out at a rate in excess of $1,000,000 a day.

The record of the treatment of ex-service men of the World war at the hands of the Republican party is not equaled by any other country in the world.

ANTIOCH the GLORIOUS

Irrigation Wheel on the Orontes, at Antioch.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

The statement, made in print many times lately, that the great calamities in Tokyo and Yokohama were "second only to that of Antioch" has brought out of obscurity a city that once was a rival to Rome itself. "Antioch the Glorious," "The Eye of the Orient." It was the gate to the East and through it flowed eastward the great tide of Greek art and civilization and Roman law. And it was a center for another great world influence, for, as the New Testament says, it was "in Antioch that the disciples were first called Christians."

The city was founded by Seleucus Nicator, favorite of Alexander the Great and heir to much of his power, and for nearly three centuries was the capital of the Seleucid empire that at times stretched from India to the Aegean sea. It was built on rising ground between the Orontes river and Mt. Silpius in northern Syria in a strategic location at the crossroads between east and west, north and south.

To the north of the original site there is a broad bend in the Orontes enclosing an island. The geographer Strabo says that the city came to have four parts: the original city of Seleucus; the city on the island, built by Antiochus I; the portion between the first city and the mountain, built by Antiochus III; and the most beautiful portion to the east, built by Antiochus Epiphanes. During the Seleucid era the city covered a space four miles long by two miles wide. In addition, there were populous suburbs such as Heraclea and Daphne.

The general plan adopted in building was one much admired at that time. There was one long main street, in general parallel with the river. All other streets were either parallel with this main street or at right angles to it. This "checker board" plan was typical of Greek cities.

Bridges spanned the river both to the island and to the northern bank. The points of the mountain were crowned with temples, shrines and a citadel.

The whole city was surrounded by a great wall which is said to have been 70 to 80 feet high, to have been protected by 300 towers, and to have been so broad that a team of four horses could drive abreast on the top of it.

Its Magnificent Main Street.

The most magnificent splendor of Antioch was its great street. This ran straight through the city from east to west. At each end there was an impressive gate. The eastern gate was later known as the "Gate of St. Paul." It was still standing forty years ago, almost complete, but now even the foundations have been removed for buildings in the modern city. The western, or Daphne gate, was called the "Gate of the Chariot," for over this gate Titus placed the golden chariot he had taken from the temple in Jerusalem.

These two gates were about four miles apart. Between them was a grand boulevard.

On each side of the street was a double row of columns. The outside aisle in each case was roofed over, furnishing a shady walk in summer and a dry and sheltered way during the winter storms. Between the inner rows of columns was a broad highway for chariots and horsemen. It has been estimated that if these columns were the same distance from each other as those still standing in the street of Palmyra, there would have been 6,500 in all.

This street was lined with magnificent public buildings, temples, shrines and palaces of the nobles.

Imagine, then, this grand highway, with its long vista of granite, marble and porphyry columns, its covered promenade rich in statues and carvings, its marble pavements, its beautiful Grecian architecture, and terminating all the golden decorations of the western gate blazing in the light of the setting sun.

Fill this street with its busy throngs of men and women; here a religious procession, the priests clad in the many-colored vestments of their office, the animal for sacrifice decked with wreaths and garlands of flowers, and the company of singers chanting the solemn procession; there a gay throng of revelers in wedding procession, escorting the bridal pair to the beautiful Nymphaeum, near the river side, a great circular, dome-covered building, rich in columns and statues, and with cool, gushing fountains—an institution with special accommodations for the celebration of nuptials; or, again, down the great street there might come some victorious general, returning in triumph from his foreign campaign—slaves, soldiers, sorcerers, all following his triumphal car. Thus came the great Caesar himself, while the city resounded again and again to cries of loyalty and adoration.

Some of Its Glories.

About the middle of the city another broad street, also colonnaded, extended from the river to the mountain. In this street, near the river, was located the Nymphaeum, mentioned previously, and where it crossed the great street was created the "Omphalos."

This altar was the center of the city and was devised in imitation of that at Delphi, which had been erected by the ancient Greeks, supposing Delphi to be the center of the world. Here was a sitting statue of Apollo, the patron god of the Seleucids.

Outside the eastern gate for a distance of two miles King Herod of the Jews built a continuation of the great street.

Herod's street also had rows of columns and was paved with marble. It traversed the portion of the city known as Herod's suburb.

From the western or Daphne gate, a great highway extended for some six or eight miles through the suburb of Heraclea to the noted Grove of Daphne. This road skirted the low foothills. At frequent intervals there were fountains, and on both sides were the magnificent villas of the nobility of Antioch.

An abundance of good water contributed to the joy and pleasure of the Seleucid capital. Not only was there the River Orontes, but great aqueducts brought a copious supply of clear, pure water from the mountains. Two large aqueducts entered the city from the east and a greater number from the west, bringing the waters of Daphne to the gardens, fountains and baths of the city.

Scene of Terrible Earthquakes.

Typhon, the terrible mythological dragon who was so fiercely at war with the god Zeus, is said to have been buried in the mountains around Antioch after having been struck down by a thunderbolt. The old name of the River Orontes is said to have been Typhon. The struggles and twistings of this monster under the mountains were held to be the cause of numerous earthquakes along the Orontes valley.

However fanciful this explanation may be, the fact remains that time and again the whole region has been devastated by fearful earthquakes. One ancient writer says the foundations of the earth were twisted, and that great cracks were opened in the earth and people were swallowed up alive.

Ten earthquakes have been enumerated which occurred between 150 B. C. and the Sixth century A. D. Since that date there have been many more, and even at the present time frequent tremors are felt along the Orontes valley.

The two most destructive earthquakes occurred in the reigns of Trajan and Justinian. In the former, it is said that even the people on Mount Casius trembled and the fountains and rivers underwent great changes. In the latter there was great loss of life. Large crowds of people had gathered in the city to celebrate the Feast of the Transfiguration. The loss of life from falling walls and flames was put at 250,000. After each of the early calamities Antioch was rebuilt, but after the great destruction by the earthquake in Justinian's reign it never again rose to its former beauty or importance.

The superdreadnought Colorado, largest battleship afloat, was moved temporarily into a unique position—alongside the largest liner owned by America and the second largest in the world—the Leviathan—in New York Harbor. This is the first time an accurate comparison between the largest warship and the largest liner has ever been obtained, and the mighty Colorado seems like a towboat alongside the Leviathan.

LARGER CORN CROP THIS YEAR

Government Estimates Also Give Bigger Yield of Cotton—Potatoes Not So Plentiful.

The crop reporting board of the department of agriculture at Washington yesterday made public the following estimates of production for 1925:

Corn—3,929,192,999 bushels, compared with 2,899,712,000 bushels in 1922. Yield per acre, 29.4 bushels compared with a ten year average of 27.0.

Potatoes, White—116,722,499 bushels, compared with 141,185,000 bushels in 1922. Yield per acre, 97.1 bushels, compared with a ten year average of 97.2.

Sweet Potatoes—97,429,600 bushels, compared with 109,534,000 bushels in 1922. Yield per acre, 96.8 bushels, compared with a ten year average of 96.7.

Cotton—10,428,000 bales, compared with 9,762,000 bales. Yield per acre, 128.1 pounds, compared with a ten year average of 164.3.

Tobacco—1,436,738,000 pounds compared with 1,121,849,000 pounds in 1922. Yield per acre, 815 pounds, compared with a ten year average of 799.0.

The price index of all crops on November 1, was 21.2 per cent more than a year ago, and 23.8 per cent less than the average of the preceding five years.

The production index is about 0.5 per cent less than last year's aggregate production and the same as the average of the preceding five years, 1917-1921.

The weight per measured bushel of wheat is estimated at 57.4 pounds against 57.7 last year and 57.7 the ten year average.

Oats—32.1 pounds against 32 last year and 31.9 the ten year average.

Stocks of old corn on hand November 1 was estimated at 83,357,000 bushels, (29) per cent of the 1922 crop compared with 177,287,000 bushels a year ago and 128,763,000 bushels, the average of the preceding five years.

LIKE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

Most-Sought-After Publication at the Government Docket Room in Washington.

It is a standing joke in Washington that nobody reads the Congressional Record if he doesn't have to, and then only under great protest. For this reason it comes as a surprise to discover that the Record is the most-sought-after publication at the document room of the government printing office and that the foreigners who patronize the document room consume Records in large numbers.

Other government publications on all subjects are in big demand among the foreign element, particularly the Japanese. Almost any day in the week will find the document room crowded with bespectacled Japanese waiting for documents pertaining to agriculture, shipping, the navy and all manner of American governmental activities, or leaving the printing office with large volumes of Congressional Records under their arms.

Among the other nationalities that appear to like the form of literature issued from the big printing office are the Russians. One day recently the writer saw a big Russian, who must have read English more fluently than he spoke it, get three bound volumes of the Record and depart all set for a festive session with the extended remarks of the gentlemen from various well-known states.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Care of Dog, After Distemper.

A dog, after having had a severe case of distemper, should not be worked to any extent for at least two months after he has recovered. The hot nose and the signs of weak knees is a clear indication of this. Feed him good, wholesome food several times a day, the diet to consist of at least two-thirds meat, the other third stale bread, dog cakes and cooked vegetables. Occasionally feed raw meat and give him large green bones to gnaw upon. If he does not recover his normal weight and strength rapidly, give him a tablespoonful of cod liver oil in his food, or just before it, night and morning. Give him time and good care and the dog will regain his former good condition.—Sportman's Digest.

Trumpeter Swans.

According to the Zoological Society Bulletin, the interesting flock of trumpeter swans now carefully guarded on a secluded lake in British Columbia numbered nineteen in the winter of 1919-20, but was reduced to nine in 1920-21 and showed a gain of only two in 1921-22. The trumpeter swan is the largest waterfowl known to have existed in North America and for many years was considered to be extinct. In 1909 Canadian naturalists announced the discovery of nests of the great swans on the islands in Franklin bay, but reports of their appearance in the United States after 1884 cannot be confirmed. The Canadian government employs a guard to protect the flock.

Air Camera Helps Fix Boundary.

The aerial camera may fill an important role in determining the long-disputed boundary between Colombia and Venezuela. The Swiss commission of experts charged with settling the question have photographs that cover 2,000,000 acres of the widest part of the territory concerned. The photographs clearly show even the most minor details of the ground and make it possible to draw an exact map of the system of watersheds and allow the placing of all the elevations, even those which until now had never been seen. It took only about 25 hours in the air to make the pictures.

Mrs. Myrtle D. Hayes

Charles M. Schwab

For 20 years Charles M. Schwab, steel master and multi-millionaire, made loans to Mrs. Myrtle D. Hayes, who is now under indictment in New York, charged with forging his name to notes which she was using to finance the erection of a $5,000,000 apartment hotel in Boston. He made the loans, he swore in bankruptcy proceedings in New York, because in 1902 he had advanced her $2,000 and he feared that if he should stop there would be some publicity regarding his past loan to her, which would result in an erroneous construction being placed upon his previous association with her.

HIGHEST OF ALL CHIMNEYS

It Belongs to a Smelting Company at Great Falls, Mont., and Rises 500 Feet.

The highest chimney in the world is at the smelting works of the Boston and Montana Consolidated Copper and Silver Mining company at Great Falls, Mont.

It rises 500 feet above the surrounding district, and has an internal diameter at the top of 50 feet. It can remove 4,000,000 feet of gases per minute, at an average temperature of 500 degrees Fahrenheit, says London Tit-Bits.

On account of the rigid requirements imposed for its construction, including extraordinary stability against wind pressures, ability to withstand the action of acid formed from the waste gases, and strength to carry 80 feet of additional height with only a little increase of the maximum bearing pressure, both its design and construction involved features of great interest.

Disposing of the noxious gases high enough above the surrounding country to render them harmless to vegetable and animal life was, of course, a great consideration in the selection of the site.

The chimney has an outside ladder from the base to the top, fitted with bodyguards at every second rung. The rungs and guards are formed of 24-inch painted round iron rods; the rungs are 12 inches in length, and the guard loops 30 inches. For a distance of 100 feet below the top they are coated with lead.

About 13,000 tons of radial blocks, 4,000 barrels of cement, 5,225 barrels of lime, 4,180 cubic yards of sand, and 200 tons of acid-proof mortar were used in the building of this enormous structure.

Road Hogs of Old.

There were road hogs before motorists. In Europe in the Seventeenth century and for some time later the roads had only one width of good going, with a quagmire on either side. If two carriages met there would be a long wrangle and possibly a fight for the sound surface. Then there were the road hogs of the towns, the gentlemen who cantered through the filthy streets, sending showers of mud over pedestrians, or coachmen, who drove in the gutters with even more dire results. And the outcry against the first "flying coaches" was as loud as that against motory.

Palladium Vital to Troy.

Among the ancient Greeks and Romans the palladium was an image of Pallas, upon the safekeeping of which, in a temple or shrine, the public wealth was thought to depend, says the Detroit News. The palladium of Troy is especially celebrated in classic story. According to legend, it was thrown from heaven by Zeus (Jupiter) and fell on the plains of Troy, where it was picked up by Ius, the founder of the city, as a good omen. On its preservation the safety of Troy depended, and it was therefore stolen by the two Greek leaders, Ulysses and Diomed.

John Cleves Symmes.

John Cleves Symmes lived from 1779 to 1829. He claimed that the earth was open at the North and South poles for the admission of light and air, and contained within it other concentric globes all inhabited in a like manner. His belief in this theory was so strong, notwithstanding the general ridicule heaped upon "Symmes' Hole"—as it was popularly called—that he both wrote and lectured on the subject. A petition was finally presented to congress in 1823 asking that an expedition be fitted out to investigate, but nothing was done about it.

Appreciation.

A well-known real estate man of Glendale went up to Big Bear for his vacation and left his small son with the neighbors, who were notable for being hearty eaters, accustomed to serving three sumptuous meals a day. When the man returned from his vacation he asked the boy whether he had enjoyed staying with the neighbors. "You bet I did," cried the small boy, adding, "they dinner all their meals."

Cattle Sinews for China.

Dried cattle sinews are eagerly sought among the poorer classes in South China, where many thousand tons are consumed annually. The demand for cattle ligaments has exceeded the domestic production, and Hong-kong dealers and importers of this article are now looking to America for supplies. These are usually imported in bags containing 500 to 600 pounds. Cattle sinews are also used in China for the manufacture of glue.

Clever Explanation.

A lady whose first husband was a minister, a delightful man, married, some years after his death, his brother, a successful lawyer. Now on her library desk stands a picture of the partner of her first joys and sorrows, and one day a curious caller asked who it was. "That," said the bottom with evident emotion, "is a picture of my husband's brother, who died some years ago and was very dear to us both."

Miss Mary Bartelme

Miss Mary Bartelme, whose 26 years of public service in Chicago have given her a national name, is Chicago's first woman Judge-elect, winning by 15,000 majority over Dennis J. Normoy, Democratic candidate. Miss Bartelme, a graduate of Northwestern University Law School, was admitted to the bar in 1894. From 1897 to 1917 she was Public Guardian. Then she was appointed to the Juvenile Court bench.

Mrs. E. F. Horstman

When E. F. Horstman, wealthy Chicago broker, was arrested on a charge of bigamy neither of his wives would prosecute him. Both declared he had been a loving husband and had provided well for them, in separate establishments. Both begged for his release, but the State's Attorney refused, declaring he would prosecute Horstman himself. Wife No. 2 put up $2,000 bail to secure his release.

FLOWING WATER MEASURED UNDER ANY CONDITIONS

New Method Is Devised by Prof. C. M. Allen of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Water flow can now be measured under almost any conditions as the result of a method devised by Prof. C. M. Allen of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, is announced by the Engineering Foundation here. Measurements of remarkable precision are accomplished by the use of salt and electricity.

"Measurement of large quantities of flowing water is at last being reduced to the simplicity which the uninitiated would think obvious," says the Foundation's description. "To be sure, there have been good meters and other measuring devices for many years, but in many situations these are impractical or too costly.

"Modern hydroelectric power plants use water in enormous quantities. A water-wheel was recently tested with a discharge of 3,500 cubic feet a second, or three times the quantity of water used by the city of New York with its population of 6,000,000. High efficiency in power development is most important, but the degree of realization can be known only through precise measurement of the quantity of water and its fall through the turbines or water-wheels.

"Some of the methods of measurement have not been satisfactory in degree of accuracy. The most accurate method has been weighing in tanks on good scales. Manifestly, it is quite impractical in many situations.

"Professor Allen's new method, like other methods of modern science for measuring quantities of many kinds, is indirect. It depends upon the fact that common salt increases the electrical conductivity of water in proportion to the quantity of salt dissolved in the water.

"The salt velocity method consists in accurately timing between two known points the passage of a charge of brine which has been injected into the water at a point upstream. Dividing the volume of the conduit between the two points by the time of passage gives the rate of flow, or discharge.

"A strong brine is injected under pressure at an upstream point through a system of small pipes so placed as to give approximately uniform distribution in the cross-section of the conduit. At one or more convenient places downstream, electrodes are inserted in the conduit and used to detect the changing conductivity of the water as the brine passes. The timing of the passing of the brine is done by means of a stop-watch or a recording electrical clock."

PINDS GIRLS OF 14 MARRIED

Pennsylvania Trust Officer Has Puzzle to Solve.

When Ed Ziegler, city school attendance officer of Bethlehem, Pa., started to hunt up a number of fourteen-year-old girls who should have been at their studies but were not, he found five of them married.

One of them, a little Spanish girl, was nursing a baby three months old when the officer called at her home. The most recent bride of the children on his list was a girl named McEnroy, who had papers to show that she was married in the Allentown courthouse August 7. She was born May 29, 1909, according to the records.

These child marriages are puzzling the attendance officer. The law says that children less than sixteen who have not attained the sixth grade must continue their studies every school day. If they have not gone as far as the eighth grade they must go to school at least one day a week.

FISH ANSWERS DINNER CALL

Arkansas Has Perch That Turns Double Flip When Fed Worms.

Wyatt Wolf of Mountain Home, Ark., has started a fish hatchery in the big tank which supplies water to the light plant here. At present he has one perch, which is leading a lonely yet lively life.

The one he has in the tank, according to Wolf, is some fish. He calls it Speck and has it trained. He can rap on the tank and it will come like a hog when it is called for feed. He feeds Speck angelfish, and when the fish is hungry Wolf can hold a worm six inches from the surface of the water, and Speck will leap out and grab it. To express its gratification, as it returns to the water, the fish turns a double flip.

The tank is about twelve feet square, and Wolf has a sign tacked on it: "No Fishing Allowed."

This Rabbit Is Half Cat. A rabbit freak which appears to be half cat was captured near Kirkland, Wash. The creature possesses claws and climbs trees. When first seen it hounded away like a kangaroo, but soon quieted down and ate clover leaves. The freak has been sent to the state university for a zoological diagnosis.

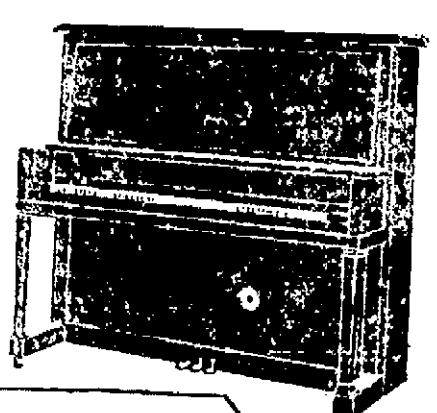

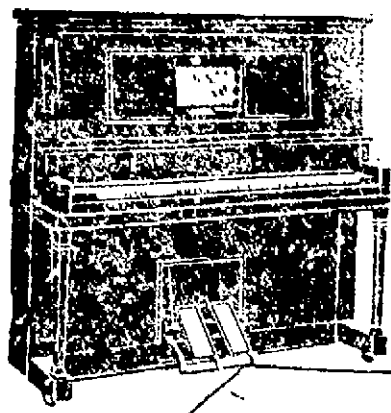

More Shops Open on Sundays. Sunday opening of shops in England is increasing so much that shoe stores and dry goods establishments now remain open on that day in some of the industrial towns.

Woman Washes Clothes at 102. Although she is 102 years old, Mrs. Hannah Throck, of New York city, still does her own washing.

TRAFFIC IS COUNTED AND WEIGHED

There is no delaying traffic with this device in order to keep track of the amount of traffic and its weight. This automatic traffic counter has been erected on the main highway between Washington and Baltimore by the University of Maryland and the United States bureau of public roads. This platform rests upon two concrete walls and under one edge is a hose of water. The hose connects with the recording apparatus. The weight of both front and rear axles is recorded.

MOTORIST IS NOT ALWAYS AT FAULT

Surprising Amount of Foolishness Enters Into Hurry and Bustle Seen on Streets.

(By ERWIN GRIDER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering Chicago.)

Trying to catch up with lost time is ascribed as the fundamental cause of the majority of motor vehicle accidents. And any necessity for making up for this lost time is usually the result of procrastination before the start. It has been claimed.

Bustle and Hurry on Street.

It is really surprising the amount of foolishness that enters into the bustle and hurry we see on the street every day. And just think how much of it would be saved if each person followed a well-ordered schedule, if he planned just so much for one day, didn't put off a business engagement when its time on the schedule arrived, and didn't, on the other hand, try to do more in eight, nine or ten hours' time than it was safely possible to do.

When you see a flock of pedestrians clutching a street car and chase recklessly across the street intersection to catch a car just starting for the crossing, just set it down that they put off starting from their home or office too long. Many a man risks his life catching a street car. I've seen men even run diagonally across a street intersection to catch a car. It seems hardly fair to leave all the watching out for the motorist to do.

Driver Just as Bad.

Yet the motorist is just as bad as anyone at trying to make up for lost time. It is proved by his confession in police court quite often. If you want further proof watch a late afternoon motorist on any busy street crossing. You will see driver after driver whip past a car in front of him, trusting his less reckless fellow pilots will keep out of his way. He overlaps the speed limit, maybe gets by with it but never catches up with the elusive minute. He should have started sooner.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

A hole should be drilled in the bottom of the motorist's box to allow water out of it that happens to overflow to make its escape.

Be careful to remove everything from the side pockets—and remove the batteries. If the car is repaired on one of these new devices used to turn it upside down.

Only two of every 1,000 accidents involving motor vehicles are unavoidable. 998 of them need not occur if proper care is observed and proper precautions taken.

It is always advisable to use tire chains whenever pavements and roads are in such condition as to make skidding likely to happen in turning corners stopping and starting.

According to reliable sources, about 30 per cent of each gallon of gasoline is wasted in automobiles, resulting from wrong carburetor adjustment and consequent imperfect combustion.

There are usually two or three places in the brake assembly where a "take-up" is possible to remove the slack. Each time the brakes are adjusted a different place should be used.

To remove hard, greasy deposits from the engine and adjacent parts, apply a solution of one-half pound of washing soda to two quarts of water, used hot scrubbing off the offending parts with a stiff brush.

A hood that has a tendency to rattle with the vibration of the motor may be silenced by drilling a series of holes in the band of metal, on which the hood rests and threading a strip of leather through the holes.

How Did He Know? Magistrate—"You are charged with being drunk. Have you anything to say?" Culprit—"I've never been drunk in my life, sir, and never intend to be, for it always makes me feel so bad in the morning."—Fall Mail Gazette (London).

Winter Battery Rules

Use nothing but distilled water.

Wipe solution sprays or spills clean with a moist sponge.

Let an expert add the acid for the electrolyte.

Never spin the engine several minutes at a time.

Do not lay tools or anything else on top of the battery.

Keep metal parts of connection which are not lead-coated covered with a thin coating of vaseline.

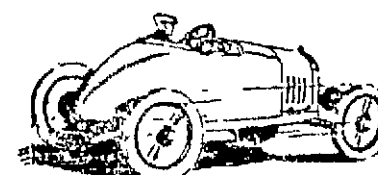

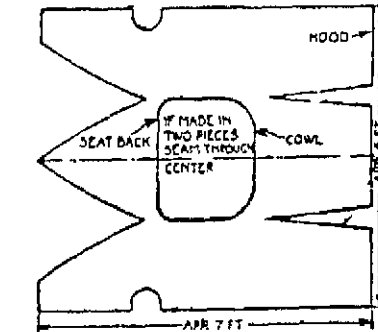

See that the engine is sufficiently primed in cold weather. Throw the switch off, push starter to turn engine once or twice, throw switch on, then start again, and the cylinder is primed.

ONE-PIECE PATTERN OF SPEEDSTER BODY

Construction Should Be of Utmost Simplicity.

The construction of a speedster body should be of utmost simplicity, otherwise the work involved exceeds the ability of the average builder with his limited tool equipment. For the builder who desires to obtain the utmost in appearance with the least work, the one-piece design illustrated in the picture is the best to select.

The cowl, rear deck, and side body are cut from sheet metal about 8 feet long and 42 feet wide. This is wide for thin material and it may be desired.

This Pattern Has Long, Sweeping Bends.

To seam two sections through the center before duffing and cutting out the form.

This design will allow of a streamline body and the hood edge can be made as required to conform to the hood or engine cover installed on the car. No opening to the rear compartment is provided from the rear, but access is permitted by making the seat backs in one piece and removing these.

The edges of the metal can be joined by either an angular section soldered to the inside edge or riveted along the edges. The illustration shows only the general form for any car and it is necessary to work out the proportions to fit the chassis frame and hood.

The main consideration in this pattern is that no difficult bends are required, and where the metal is bent the long sweeping bend is used. The average home-constructed job involves short and difficult bends. These invariably show defective workmanship.—G. A. Luers in Popular Science Monthly.

OPERATION OF FACING VALVE

When Badly Pitted Work Is Best Carried Out on Lathe—May Be Ground With Wheel.

When valves are badly pitted the operation of facing is best carried out in a lathe. Chuck the valve stem and clean the center in the valve end and support it in the dead center of the tail stock. If the valves are so bad that facing with a tool is impossible, they may be ground with a wheel while in the lathe.

Huge Pocket Knife. A most elaborate pocket knife, the most costly in the world, has recently been made in Sheffield, England. It took the maker two years to make this curious knife which has 75 blades. Each blade is of the finest steel and some of them are ornamented with quaint and curious designs.

POISONING FROM DYED FURS

Chemical With Formidable Name Is Blamed in England for Serious Skin Affections.

Last winter and the winter before many cases of a peculiar skin poisoning of women were reported in England. The principal symptoms were blotches and swelling with itching and burning, so severe in some cases as to prevent sleep for several nights.

Investigation has shown that the trouble came from wearing furs, chiefly rabbit dyed to imitate beaver, says Hygeia. On analysis the dye was found to be metaphenylenediamine. The dye apparently had not been fixed properly, so that a part was removed when it came in contact with moist skin.

Metaphenylenediamine is closely related chemically to paraphenylenediamine, which has been much used in this country as a constituent of hair dyes, and as a fur dye. Numerous cases of severe poisoning have resulted in past years in this country from the use of this hair dye and of dyed furs.

There appears to be great variability in sensitivity among different persons. Most persons who use the hair dyes or who wear dyed furs suffer no inconvenience, but occasionally one develops alarming symptoms. It would be well for persons who wear dyed furs to remember that irritation of the skin may be due to their furs. Furs that have caused poisoning may be re-colored with some dye that is properly set and will not rub off.

Washington Rose.

The Mary Washington rose is perhaps the most ambitious attempt at floriculture made by George Washington. He made it at Mount Vernon in the last years of his life when he had laid aside the cares of state. He started the rose from seeds brought from one of the older gardens in Philadelphia, grafted the young growth on the native sweetbrier and named the result after his mother, Mary Washington. It was probably the first attempt in this country to hybridize the monthly with the yearly blooming rose. The Mary Washington rose became famous; it still adorns an ancient trellis in the family garden at Mount Vernon, but if all the requests for cuttings were granted, there would soon be nothing left of it.—Youth's Companion.

World's Deepest Mine.

Brazil now boasts the deepest mine in the world, at St. John del Rey, which recently attained a vertical depth of 6,736 feet. The temperature of the rock at this depth is 117 degrees, and a system of artificial cooling on a large scale had to be provided for the comfort of the workmen. The system of ventilation has proved successful, but because of the steep-like series of shafts and levels by which the bottom slopes are reached, the cost of hoisting and ventilation has become excessive. A vertical shaft as a more direct means of entry is being considered. The ore in the bottom workings shows no signs of a decrease in gold content, so that the St. John del Rey proves an exception to the usual run of deep mines.

MYSTERY SHIP IN ICEBERG

Steamer Captain Rounding the Horn Sees Large Vessel Embedded in Frozen Mass.

For centuries mystery ships have sailed the seas, guided only by the winds of chance. One of them was found by a steamer captain rounding the Horn recently, according to a writer in Popular Mechanics. While groping his way into the open, a gigantic mass of ice carrying a large three-masted schooner, with its boats still in the clefts, was sighted. Efforts were made to find the survivors, but no trace of them was discovered. Another sea tragedy was added to the already long list of those as yet unsolved when a Greenland winter came upon a strange looking derelict, battered and weather-worn, apparently built in the last century and icebound for years. A boarding crew found in the cabin the body of a young woman, preserved by the Arctic frosts. Near a long dead fire was the remains of a young man, still holding a flint and steel.

Overworking Our Presidents.

The last ten of our presidents who have died had an average length of life of 61.9 years. The ten presidents who preceded them lived to an average age of 68.5 years, and the first six reached an average age of 70.6 years. The growing burdens of the presidential office have become too great. It is time that all citizens realized that to make a useless demand on the president's time and strength is subversive of the public good.—Youth's Companion.

EXCITING WALRUS HUNT DESCRIBED

Author Tells of Thrilling Experiences in Arctic.

USE THE HARPOON

A thrilling walrus hunt was described to the pupils of three Detroit schools recently by Roy Snell, Arctic explorer and author.

"The first day I ever saw a walrus," Mr. Snell, "we drove our skin boat into the midst of 500 or more of them, and before shooting at all, harpooned four.

"Great, fierce-looking beasts they are, too. Weighing as much as two or three large horses, with tusks of ivory two and a half feet long, hanging out of the water, barking and blowing with a strange hoarse ark-ark, ark, ark—ark, they were used to inspire terror in the heart of a harder hunter than myself. Formerly I had my moving-picture camera with me, and in the excitement of taking pictures, I forgot many things. I forgot that we were ten miles from land; that a leap of one of these monsters square across our boat would smash it like an egg with a shell; I forgot that I could not swim, and that the Arctic water was icy cold; forgot everything my effort to get Mr. Walrus' picture while his mustache was smooth and straight and his face wore its sweet smile.

Bread to the Eskimo.

To the Eskimo the walrus and seal are bread and butter. He may get a walrus, and he may not; most likely he will not get one polar bear in a season. The little brown walrus is with him winter and summer. Herds of walrus pass south through Behring straits, going north in the spring and south in winter. The piles of walrus meat save the huge from the dread starving.

Mr. Snell declared the ancient hunters of the Eskimo have been armed for firearms. One, however, gains—the harpoon.

"These walrus we steered into," went on, "were having some sort of a fight, or so it seemed to me. Leap high out of the water, uttering a hoarse harouk, harouk, harouk, with their white tusks gleaming as swords in the light, they would form a graceful curve, then go sailing head foremost into the sea.

Walrus Attacks Boat.

For the most part they paid no attention to us than a family of dogs do to a drifting log. One big walrus, however, began to eye us. Three lunges he was close to our boat. The next second his ton and a half of weight would have dropped across our bow had it not been for a sudden warning shout and the quick banging of him over the head with a rifle barrel.

He was not, however, to escape so easily. One of the largest of the herd, long and perfect tusks, he was a terrible prize. In some manner, snarl, the harpoon thrower, had hit him for his own.

Leaping to the prow and holding the hand a six-foot shaft and in the other a coil of rawhide rope, he had there and waited.

"Our walrus rose. There was a second as Puzuk's arm shot up; then, as swift as an arrow, came down. The harpoon sang through the air. There followed the thud as the point buried itself in the tough hide of the walrus.

Great Herd Vanishes.

"He went down and tried to sink the plow through the brine to us as a ride. We saw his angry eye as now and again he rose for a shot. But even then we did not attempt to shoot him. This was the meat harvest of the season. Our walrus would fill our boat. There were others about us. We must have more. Get us did. Before my hardy hunters took to their rifles four walrus were saving away at skin ropes fastened securely to our boat.

When the fourth walrus had been successfully lashed to the boat, every one of the crew seized his rifle and fired constantly, as if by magic, a great herd disappeared.

"A walrus is a hard creature to kill. A skull is fully two inches thick. A walrus glances off it as it would off a steel ball. In time, however, we shot our four killed. Since there was more near, we were obliged to drag the walrus to the boat, and, after lashing it by flippers and tusks to the side, put them up in the water."

Wales a Quick-Change Artist.

The prince of Wales is in the front when it comes to quick-change work, as was witnessed during a recent five-hour visit to the famous Harrow school. The prince arrived at noon and in the uniform of a colonel of Welsh guards and inspected the training corps. He changed morning clothes to lunch with the master, and then put on flannels and a lounge suit for tea and kept when he drove back to the palace.

DONALDSON HAD PLANNED HISTORY OF CATSKILLS

Author Died, However, Before He Could Execute Project.

Alfred Lee Donaldson, banker and author, died at his home at Saranac Lake Wednesday after an illness of nearly thirty years. He was born in New York city, in January, 1866, and attended school in that city, completing his education at Yale university. Until his physical condition forced him to leave the city he was connected with the banking business in New York city. With several others he founded the Adirondack National Bank. He refused the presidency of the institution but acted as an officer until his illness reached a stage where he was no longer able to leave his home. From that time on Mr. Donaldson devoted himself to literary work and he was the author of numerous poems, dealing mostly with the Adirondacks, which were published in various magazines. His chief achievement from a literary standpoint was the writing of "Donaldson's History of the Adirondacks," the only volume of its kind. When he died Mr. Donaldson was at work on a novel dealing with life in the Adirondacks. Mr. Donaldson is survived by his wife and brother, Henry P. Donaldson of New York city. He was a brother-in-law of Downing Vaux of this city. Funeral and interment were at Saranac Lake. Mr. Donaldson in the latter part of his life took considerable interest in the Catskill Mountain region and put forward the proposition that the Catskill Mountains were but a continuation of the Adirondack group. He had planned to write a history of the Catskills if his health permitted and several prominent Kingstonians had offered to assist him as possible.

Their Condition Unchanged.

Inquiry at the Kingston City and Benedictine Hospitals this afternoon brought out the fact that there was no change in the condition of the five New York policemen, who were injured in an auto accident Wednesday on the Ashokan Boulevard.

Bone Grafting.

Sir William MacEwen told the Royal Society of Medicine recently of the case of a boy whose humerus was entirely gone, and his mother wanted the arm amputated because she said it was worse than useless as the boy "had to use the other arm to look after it." Six wedges from six limbs of three different people were taken and introduced into the boy's arm. They all grew, and the boy got so well that he fought with another boy and broke the arm.

Use Tides for Power.

Scarcity of coal since the French invasion of the Ruhr valley has set the Germans to thinking of ways to use the force of the tides for power. The chief difficulty seems to be that the north coast of Germany is very flat, and consequently that the available head of water is too low for practical use.—Scientific American

ONLY FOUR OF PRESENT ALDERMEN WILL RETURN

At the regular monthly meeting of the common council Thursday evening the fact was brought out that of the members of the present council but four would return the first of the year. The four are: Alderman Van Wagenen of the First ward, Buchert of the Second ward, Joy of the Sixth ward; and Everett of the Eleventh ward. One Alderman Ryan of the Thirteenth ward, will be a member of the board of supervisors the first of the year.

The Embargo Act.

The embargo act was an act passed by the United States congress December 22, 1907, during Jefferson's second administration, detaining with few exceptions, all vessels—United States and foreign—then in United States ports, and ordering all United States vessels home. Although the embargo was decreed on account of the insults offered to the United States flag by British cruisers, it was repealed in March, 1809, "as ruinous to the states, unsatisfactory to France, and ineffectual as a retaliation upon England." A second embargo, laid in April, 1812, was repealed after 90 days.

CLINTON AVENUE CHURCH
ANNUAL CHICKEN DINNER

The annual chicken pie dinner at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will be given on Wednesday, November 14, from 5 until 8 o'clock. The menu will consist of chicken pie, mashed potatoes, cabbage salad, cranberry sauce, tea, celery, home made apple and pumpkin pie. The supper which is served under the direction of the Women's Class assisted by the ladies of the church is one of the big events of the year and is looked forward to by the townspeople as a real event. In connection with the supper there will be an apron and home made candy booth.

BASKING SHARK NEVER BITES

This May Have Been Fortunate for Men Who Caught Monster Off Long Key.

The 40,000-pound sea monster caught off Long Key has been identified as an Indo-Pacific basking shark by L. L. Mowbray, vice president of the New York aquarium. The basking shark, Mr. Mowbray announces, is harmless when let alone. Permit him to bask placidly on the undulating bosom of the sea, and he bears no creature ill will.

It is fortunate for those who go down to the sea in ships or down to the surf to swim that the creature is thus disposed. It required an all-day struggle and 50 shots from a high-powered rifle to subdue him, once his wrath was stirred by the stab of a harpoon. He was 35 feet long, 28 feet in greatest circumference and had a tail span of 12 feet.

Were such a creature of an aggressive nature the sea in his vicinity would be hardly safe for the average swimmer, while pleasure boats would afford no protection whatever from his fury, and if he used the waters of the North Atlantic coast as a basking ground surf bathing would soon become obsolete.

Hitherto the children of the earth have found abundant reason for gratitude that rattlesnakes cannot fly like hawks, or tigers run like antelopes, or houseflies sting like wasps. To this list of blessings we may now add the fact that basking sharks do not bite.

HEALTHY BABIES OF JAPAN

They Seem to Have a Hard Time, According to Our Ideas, But Thrive Nevertheless.

According to our modern scientific ideas as to the careful treatment of babies, those of Japan would seem to have a hard time, and yet there are no healthier, nor fatter looking little mortals on the face of the earth. We insist on a fixed temperature, on sterilized milk, on all sorts of improved things, while the Japanese baby gets a good dose of nature, and seems to thrive on it. It is dressed and undressed in a frigid temperature in winter, and in summer its tender little eyes are always exposed to the full glare of the sun, as it is carried on its mother's back. It is to be feared, however, that this latter treatment often does affect the eyes of the children, though they get over it later in life. At Nagasaki, among the women carriers who coal the ship, you may see many with babies on their backs. The mothers work all day in the rain or in the sun, or the snow, and their baby sleeps, indifferent to everything, the top of its head alone visible, while the movements of the mother do not seem in the least hindered, and she as if the babies of this class were born stoics!

Modern Jerusalem.

The ancient city of Jerusalem, where Christ did so many of his mighty works, now has a modern waterworks system. The reservoirs known as the Pools of Solomon were not really Solomon's at all, but were made by Roman engineers. These have been cleaned out and their leaks stopped. Now two of them are at work again. They hold 40,000 gallons.

The pools are supplied from a spring in a cavern called Bir Darash. A large quantity of gravel and stones has been removed, and the aqueduct and tunnels between the spring and the pools repaired; and Jerusalem has its up-to-date waterworks—a splendid tribute to the science of ancient Rome.

For many years the origin of Jerusalem's water supply was a secret. During the siege of Jerusalem the besiegers were disappointed in their hope of the city surrendering through lack of water.

Uncle Jasper.

"Proverbs ain't always correct," began Uncle Jasper. "I'll cite you a case. Some years ago Rothschild decided to add to his collection of mosses and lichens from many parts of the world, but he wanted moss. He wanted moss from the Urals, from the Arctic circle, from the tip end of Patagonia. He was ready to pay a good salary. And who did he employ to gather this moss? A rolling stone."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

1 CENT CHECK CAUSES
NO END OF TROUBLE

Payment by the United States to Cheyenne National Bank is Finally Returned.

Major W. P. Simpson of the United States Quartermaster corps, who is now employed in the offices of the World War Veterans' State Aid commission at Salem, Ore., displayed a check for one cent, which, according to his statements, has caused correspondence aggregating many dollars.

In 1918, during the World war, Major Simpson deposited in the Stock Growers' National bank at Cheyenne, government funds amounting to $11,906.95. Many months later Major Simpson received a letter from the bank that the account was one cent short, based on Major Simpson's checks, and that a remittance would be appreciated.

Investigation by Major Simpson showed that the books of the United States Treasury department coincided with the claim of the bank, and much correspondence followed. Finally, after hundreds of letters had been exchanged between Major Simpson, the Treasury department and the Cheyenne bank, the former sent a check to the depository for 1 cent.

Before this transaction was completed, however, the bank apparently balanced the account by appropriating the 1 cent from its funds, and the incident was closed. As a result the Cheyenne bank returned Major Simpson's check, which he now proposes to have framed as a relic of the World war.

The check was the smallest ever issued by the quartermaster department, in which Major Simpson was actively employed during the World conflict.

TO PRINT JAPAN'S MONEY

U. S. to Help Tokyo Until New Plant Can Be Erected.

At a meeting of the cabinet in Washington recently President Coolidge was told that the Japanese government had applied to the United States for assistance in printing paper money. Behind the application was the fact that the Japanese government printing establishment, corresponding to the bureau of printing and engraving in Washington, had been destroyed in the recent devastating earthquake and fire.

The United States government will offer its own paper currency printing plant for use by Japan during the emergency and will put Japanese representatives in touch with American establishments capable of furnishing the presses and other material necessary to enable reconstruction of the destroyed Japanese plant.

One of the features of the offer to be made by this government will enable Japan to take over hand presses previously used in printing our currency in the bureau of engraving and printing, but abandoned with the installation of steam presses.

"Horse Hoe" Invented in 1602.
The Englishman, Jethro Tull, in 1602, invented his "horse hoe," as he called it. Tull's machine was designed to assist the various plants by loosening the earth, destroying the grass and weeds, and at the same time throwing about the plant the fresh soil. With a pair of horses and Tull's machine one man seated behind his team was able to do the work of a dozen men with the ordinary hoe. About the time that Tull gave the world his "horse hoe," says the Detroit News, a Spaniard, Lescotello, invented the first machine for sowing grain.

Made Gardener Barber.
A major in a certain English regiment had a great contempt for incapacity of any kind, and was also somewhat impatient. A sergeant complained to him that he could get no man to undertake the duty of barber to the company. "Is there no gardener in the company?" asked the major testily. "See if you can find one, and send him to me." The man was duly sent, but on receiving orders to act as barber, ventured to expostulate. "Why?" cried the major. "If you can cut grass you can cut hair! Go on and do it!"

Improving Yellow Diamonds.

Diamonds of the finest water are pure white, gleaming, flashing, lights of red, green and blue. Any tinge of yellow in a diamond has always greatly reduced its value. Recently, however, a process has been discovered whereby the color of the yellow diamond may be changed, and its value enhanced. Treatment of the stone consists in placing the diamond over a small hole in a block of lead. Rays from a tube containing radium are directed into this hole, and slowly a change takes place. The discolored stone loses its yellow hue, and by degrees takes on a magnificent flashing green color, not unlike the emerald. The length of time required to complete the change varies. Sometimes the transformation is comparatively quick, often it takes a year or more. The result is a jewel of surpassing beauty.

Blue Law.

When they closed the bar on one of the transatlantic liners bound for the land of liberty one of the passengers protested. "Seems like you're closing up awful soon; how far are we from land, anyway?"

"Just about three miles," answered the steward politely.

"Funny we can't see it!"

"You could, if the water were clear enough."—Los Angeles Times.

No Trespassing.

On a sign in South Georgia is posted this sign:

"Trespasser will be persecuted to the full extent of 2 mean mongrel dogs which ain't never been ovari surged with strangers and 1 dubbel barlet shogun which ain't loaded with no soft pillers. Dam! If I ain't tired of this hel rainin' on my property."—Everybody's Magazine.

"Poor as Job's Turkey."

"As poor as Job's turkey," a simile often used to indicate extreme poverty, has reference to the deplorable state to which Job was reduced when delivered by God into the hands of Satan. "Job's turkey," according to the popular notion, had only one feather in its tail, and had to lean against the fence to gobble. The originator of the saying apparently did not realize it would have been impossible for Job to possess a turkey, since that bird is a native of America, suggests the Detroit News. Thomas Chandler Haliburton of Nova Scotia, who used the pseudonym of "Sam Slick" and wrote about the doings of "Samuel Slick of Slickville," refers to "Job's turkey" in some of his writings.

Guillotine "Humane" Device.

The guillotine received its name from its supposed inventor, Joseph Ignace Guillotin, a French physician who simply recommended its adoption for motives of humanity, as it would cause painless death. Guillotin lived to become one of the founders of the Academy of Medicine in Paris, and died peacefully at the age of seventy-six. The guillotine was first used in Paris to put to death a criminal named Pelletier on the Place de Greve, April 26, 1792, says the Detroit News. The first political victim to suffer death by this means was Danton, who was guillotined August 21, of the same year.

Watch Your Popcorn!

"Albert!" said the cautious mother at the zoo, addressing her little boy who accompanied her. "You'd better finish your popcorn before we go into the lion house; the sight of food always maddens those wild animals!"

Graphite Paint.

The growing exclusion of lead paint, on the ground of its poisonous character, has led to the introduction of graphite as a substitute, particularly in the place of red lead in the painting of iron. Mixed with seed oil, graphite protects the paint against rust, and is much cheaper than red lead. So many new uses have been found for graphite, that not long ago was employed almost exclusively for the manufacture of what we call "lead pencils," that its quantities are now made with electric furnace, the natural deposit of the mineral not being sufficient to supply the demand.

Medicine in Zululand.

Native doctors in Zululand collect fees by blowing into the ears of their patients to cast out evil spirits. The victim is seated on the blanket floor of the outdoor surgery, and announcing that he is to dispel wicked demons causing the sickness, the medicine man places a horn to the patient's ear and blows. "The ill generally makes a bad face, of course," and being convinced that he has been cured is troubled no more in severe cases where the horn is effective herbs are used as a remedy.

Necessary Intermittence.

Max Cohen, the artist, has two children of whom he is very proud. The other night, when his wife, attending her Thursday club, he the shock of his artistic existence. Little Buddy was trying to say prayers, but his stater kept tickling the soles of his feet. At last, looking upward very sadly, he said: "God, please excuse me for a minute till I knock the devil out of Harry."

ON VIRGINIA RAILWAY

Telegraph to The Freeman.
Norfolk, Nov. 9.—The Virginian
Railroad will be operated normally next week if striking locomotive engineers and firemen do not return to work by six o'clock Saturday morning, Charles H. Hix, president of the road declared today.
Hix has issued an ultimatum to the men telling them they will lose their jobs permanently if they do not return to duty tomorrow.

ROST KILLED AS AUTO
OVERURNS AT CROSSING

Joseph Harrison, whose home is located in Pawling, Ulster county, was killed and Harry Loft, 52, of Pawling, burt, probably fatally, Wednesday night when their automobile turned on the Delaware and Ulster Railroad tracks at Stowell's crossing, two miles south of Afton.
Loft has a fractured skull and internal injuries. He was taken to a hospital in Oneonta.

DEATH OF QUAIL VISIT
YARD OF MRS. C. M. PRESTON

This morning while Abram Has-brook was leaving the grounds of Mrs. C. M. Preston on the Strand he was struck by a flock of half a dozen quail on the old fountain in the yard.
He was seeking to "quench" their thirst as he approached closer they glutted, took wing and flew away.

Errors in Votokio "Ad."

There were several errors in the advertisement of A. E. Votokio of Kingston in Thursday's Freeman.
One item stated that "pure lean cured hams" sold for 25 cents. It should have read sausage instead of hams. The other error was "sausage at 13 cents" which should have been "Cured hams at 13 cents."

AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 9.—The stock market opened irregular today, fresh buying in various issues being offset by profit-taking in other directions.
The market in the forenoon trading gave the most convincing exhibition of underlying strength yet seen on the current upswing. Some irregularity at the opening, due to profit taking was quickly overcome after which the forward movement was resumed in various directions.
The market continued strong all through the afternoon trading.

Thirsty Sugar.

Thirsty sugar is in part responsible for the formation of fruit jellies, according to Prof. H. N. Holmes of Oberlin university. The sugar, which is added to the fruit juice has an affinity for water which it takes from the pectin in jellylike condition. Other chemical substances have been found to have the same property, but they are mostly poisonous or unsuitable for human consumption.

No Damage Done.

After much excitement the Smiths had at last managed to catch the train. Now, when they could sit quietly for a while, they began to wonder if they had left anything behind. Mrs. Smith gave a shriek. "Oh, Harry," she gasped, "I forgot to turn off the electric fan." "Don't worry, darling," he replied, "nothing will burn. I forgot to turn off the showerbath."—The Christian Era.

Jack's Prayer.

Little Jack had been so naughty that mother had to give him a spanking, and all that afternoon a desire for revenge rankled in his breast. At length bedtime came and kneeling down he said his evening prayer, making a blessing upon all the members of the family individually—except one.
Then, rising, he turned to his mother with a triumphant look, saying as he climbed into bed, "I s'pose you noticed you wasn't in it?"

U. S. BUDGET TO
BE $1,700,000,000

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 9.—President Coolidge has finally approved all of the tentative estimates of the expenditures of government departments for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1924, it was announced at the White House today.

The estimates will now be drawn up by the bureau of the budget for presentation to congress next month.
The war department's appropriation for 1924-25 was discussed at a conference this morning between the president, Secretary Weeks and Budget Director Lord. The budget will total approximately $1,700,000,- 000 for the operating of the government.

"Y" FATHER AND SON BANQUET

On November 16, Boys' Department and Clergymen Cooperating—Dr.
Petty Secured as Speaker.

There will be a Father and Son
Banquet held at the Y M C A on Friday evening November 16 at 6:30 o'clock. This banquet is held under the direction of the local ministers and the Boys' Division at the Y M C A, with Mrs. Ellis and Hoove, and Boys' Secretary Hall, in charge of the arrangements.

Dr. A. R. Petty, of New York city, one of the best speakers to men and boys in New York, has been secured to be the principal speaker. There will be other speakers as well. Dr.
Ingersoll of the Wurts Street Baptist Church will be in charge of the singing and special song sheets have been secured with regulation Father and Son songs.

Those desiring tickets must secure them before Wednesday evening, as the low cost makes it very unprobable that close buying be observed.

Things at the "Y" for Boys.

Tonight there will be a social and entertainment for the members of the division, at 7:30. A good time is in store for those who attend.

It is hoped that the rooms will be entirely redecorated so that the department may be opened on next Wednesday, November 14th.

The practice for the hexathalon events starts next week, on Monday for all classes.

The employed boys' gym class is improving every night. New members are coming in every session. This class is for the new boys and for those boys who are forced to work afternoons after school or full time.

The "Y" has a place for these on next Tuesday evening, November 13th, the Employed Boys Brtherhood will hold their first regular meeting of the year.

On Wednesday evening, November 21st the Hi Y Club entertains the faculty of Kingston High School at supper and anticipates having Dean
Hoover as the principal speaker.

Messrs. Perry and Vogt are in charge of this feature of the Hi Y program, and are promising those who attend
a very interesting evening.

Fashion Plates of Antiquity.

The Beotian town of Iuvavita was a place of some importance in ancient times, but it had long since vanished from the map, when in the early 70s or the last century the world began to hear of "Tumagra Plumes." The figures are hollow, usually open at the base, and were cast in several pieces from molds. More than nine tenths of these figures represent women—not in the conventional manner of the Egyptian monuments, but in a photographic likeness. They show us everyday Greek womanhood of the Third and Fourth centuries before Christ, says a writer in the "Antiquary."
They reveal much about the intimate lives of Greek women, their tastes and amusements and especially the details of their dress. We see them at work in their homes or deep in the mysteries of the toilet.

Pigeons Among Primitive Peoples.

Pigeons have been domesticated from the earliest times. They were looked upon with much affection by primitive peoples, and one of the indications of wealth was the number of doves or pigeons a man possessed.
Mention of doves and pigeons in the Bible usually is in connection with sacrifice. As in the case of the parents of Jesus (Luke 11:24), the poor were allowed to bring, instead of a lamb, two doves or two young pigeons. The first known law for bird protection, found in Deuteronomy 22:
6, forbidding the killing of a mother bird on the nest, probably was largely for the benefit of the pigeon. Pigeons wrote of pigeons, especially noting their manner in drinking—"not holding up their bills between whiffs."

Pegasus, Winged Horse.

In classic myth, Pegasus was the fumous winged horse that sprang from the blood of Medusa, the mortal Gor-gon when she was slain by Perseus, says the Detroit News. Pegasus dwelt at Olympus and carried thunder and lightning for Zeus. By his aid, Belle-rophon conquered the Chimera. Pegasus was regarded by late writers as the horse of Eos, and was said to have revealed the fountains of Hippocrene on Mount Helicon by a kick of his hoof. According to a modern poetic fancy, Pegasus became the horse of the muses and thence arose the saying, "to mount one Pegasus," meaning to write poetry.

FEMALE HELP WANTED

WANTED: Girl for general housework, Phone 5-1-2, High Falls, Mrs. J. W. Atkins.

STERLING GUARDIAN OF HOT CORNER

An actiongraph of Helne Groh, the sterling and peppy little third baseman of the champion Giants. Groh was out often in the past with injuries and really didn't get going full blast until the world's series, when he showed his real class. The sequence of action is started with the clips at the left and completed by the clips at the right.

Sport Notes

A football team is composed of men, a band and a yell leader.

Miss Glenn Collect of Providence, R. I. is the women's golf champion of Canada.

Major league baseball teams, as a rule, are not permitted to leave the United States.

The emery ball was first used in the American league in 1910 by Russell, a New York Yankee pitcher.

Australia has been the most powerful tennis rival of the United States for the last eleven years.

Ed. Georges Carpentier held the French heavyweight championship when he was only fifteen years old.

The Corinthian soccer team of London is planning to play three matches with American teams in this country this year.

The longest hole on a golf course is the Alamo Country club at San Antonio, Tex. It is the fifth hole and is 360 yards long.

Joseph McElroy Mann, while pitcher for Princeton against Yale in 1875, was supposed to be the first man to pitch a spit game.

Mr. Marston says that putting is the secret of success in golf. The secret is hitting the ball straight, true with whatever club one uses.

The first world series in baseball was played 18 years ago between the New York National league club and the Philadelphia club of the American league.

William V. Bach of Reading, Pa., finally made what is believed to be a world's indoor swimming record for men, when she swam ten hours and minutes continuously.

Unbow III, a 26-foot motorboat, owned by H. B. Greening of Hamilton, N. Y., holds the world's record for 24 hours for any kind of boat. She made 240 miles in 24 hours, averaging 44.33 miles an hour for the entire distance.

Qui (Honus) Mitze, veteran catcher, had a good season with the New York team, has stated his intention to retire from baseball. He has had 15 years of it and thinks he should retire while he still has a reputation.

Praise for Pinelli

Pinelli, whose third basing for the Boston Red Sox has caused much comment, is regarded as one of the mainstays of the Cincinnati Reds.

Oldest Armchair.

The oldest armchair in the world is the throne of Queen Hatshepsut, who reigned in Egypt 1500 years B. C. It is made of ebony and beautifully carved. It is now among the treasures of the British Museum.

New Record by Cobb

Try Cobb smashed three of the presumed "impenetrable" baseball records during the season of 1923.

When the mighty Georgian turned in an average of .338 it made his eighteenth consecutive year above the .300 mark. The old record was held by Hans Wagner with .377.

Through those 18 years Cobb hit for an average of .373, whereas Wagner's was .320.

By scoring 102 runs and hammering out 188 hits in 1923, Cobb took from Wagner the "unbeatable" records for total tallies and safeties in a baseball lifetime.

Cobb's record now is 1,735 runs and 3,454 hits against 1,725 runs and 5,308 hits by the immortal "Flying Dutchman."

Boston Red Sox Invade Kitty League for Stars

Three players of the Paris team of the Kitty league advance to higher company. They are Outfielder Jenkins, who goes to the Boston Red Sox; Outfielder Moore, who is sold to Kansas City, and Shortstop Welch, who joins Danville of the Three-I league for trial next spring. The Boston Red Sox got two other Kitty league players by purchase. They are Catcher Adams and Pitcher Ross of the Mayfield team.

British Raise $200,000 to Train Olympic Team

Great Britain is out to win the 1924 Olympic games in Paris, and if her athletes fail it will not be the fault of the public. In an effort to regain the athletic supremacy which the British Isles lost in the last few years, a London newspaper started a campaign to raise $200,000, the amount necessary to send a team to France.

Arthur Staff Will Meet O. Mathieson for Title

Arthur Staff, American ice skating champion, will meet Oscar Mathieson, champion of Europe, for the world's skating title in Norway, next year, between January 10 and 15. He will run in four events, the 500, 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000 meters races.

To Visit United States. The Corinthian soccer team of London is planning to play three matches with American teams in this country next year.

Harvard vs. Boston U. Harvard will open the baseball season April 5 next with Boston university nine at Cambridge.

Danish Superstition. In Denmark it is a popular superstition that if one is suffering from toothache or ague, another person can charm it away by gathering an elder twig and burying it. But the burial place must be kept secret from the sufferer.

OPENING GAME AT ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville Wanderers basketball team will play the Chester Hambletonians this evening at Norbury Hall, Ellenville.

The Chester quintet needs no introduction to Ellenville fans, having showed their class in the two games played there last season. They are putting the same high class team on the floor this year. In the lineup appears the familiar face of Ed Kane, last year's Ellenville Independent pivot man, also the famous Benny Borgman's brother, F. Borgman. The Wanderers are composed of the pick of Ellenville, and are hopeful of starting the season with a victory. The Chester lineup: F. Borgman, Decker, forwards; Kane, center; Dell, Hulse, guards. The Ellenville lineup: Traphagen, Gorton, Barley, Taylor, Wright, Rosenberg, Wilklow. Dancing after the game. Music by Rosenthal's orchestra.

Ostrich Plumes Costly. Ostrich feathers are either plucked by hand or cut from the wings whence come the most valuable plumes. The annual feather crop of the average ostrich is worth from fifty to sixty dollars. The birds yield a crop of valuable feathers every seven months, although some breeders confine the plucking to a single harvest a year, as they claim that in this way they get better quality.—Nature Magazine.

England's Diving Thrush. The English brook-hunting dipper is an oddity—a thrush which has become a waterbird. Deeper and deeper it thrusts its head into the water seeking for aquatic beetles and other insects, says an authority. At length it came to disappear altogether, and became a diver. Still it has not acquired even yet any of the characteristics of the true diving birds. Its feet are unwebbed. It is still a thrush.

CALL FOR ROLL CALL VOLUNTEERS

The following wards have been organized for the Red Cross Roll Call beginning Monday. First Ward, Mrs. Charles Tappan, captain. Second Ward, Mrs. Martha Schwab, captain. Third Ward, Mrs. Edmon-ton and Mrs. Hickey, captains. Sixth Ward, James A. Halloran, captain. Seventh Ward, Mr. Morris Block, captain. Eleventh Ward, Mrs. George H. DuBols.

This leaves seven wards to be completed by Saturday night.

The Emergency Committee, appointed by Chairman De Witt consisting of Judge Heshonck, Morris Block and Mrs. Hickey, respectfully ask for volunteers to make up captains and teams for Wards 1, 5, 8, 9, 10 and 11. The headquarters are permanently opened in the Y. M. C. A. Building and the committee will be glad to receive suggestions and volunteers all day Saturday. Chairman De Witt and assistants are in charge of headquarters, which is a very busy place.

It would be very embarrassing if certain ward in the city did not respond to the Roll Call through lack of workers in those sections. That would necessitate receiving the payments at the headquarters and full justice to the needs of the Red Cross would not result.

It is confidently expected that all teams will be complete by Saturday night ready to canvass their blocks beginning Monday.

Sunday, August 19th, the clergy have been requested to comment on the work of the Red Cross and the Roll Call opening.

WALSH RESIGNS AS CANALS HEAD

James E. Doyle Also Quits As Deputy Commissioner, Making Five Officials Out Since Greene's Probe Started.

Telegraph to The Freeman, Albany, Nov. 9.—Edward S. Walsh of Brooklyn, this afternoon resigned as state commissioner of canals and waterways. His resignation will take effect next Monday.

Commissioner Walsh filed his resignation with Colonel Frederick Stautt Greene, superintendent of the newly created state department of public works.

James E. Doyle of Syracuse has resigned as deputy commissioner of canals. This makes five officials to sever connection with the state department of public works since Governor Smith ordered a probe into the financial affairs of the department.

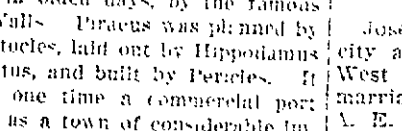

COUNTY SOCIETY ANNUAL MEETING

The eighth annual business meeting of the Ulster County Society in the city of New York will be held in Stewart's Restaurant, Park Place, New York City, on Saturday afternoon, November 17, at 1 o'clock. Officers will be elected and reports received. Luncheon will be served, preceding the meeting. Members are requested to notify Joseph Drake, secretary, 116 Nassau Street, New York City, if they will be present.

Services at Woodstock. The Rev. J. P. Nicholas, D. D., will preach at 11 a. m. in the Reformed Church, Woodstock, on "The Church Overcometh" and at 7:30 on "Jesus Going Home." Piraeus. Piraeus is the harbor of ancient and modern Athens, five miles distant from the city, with which it was connected in olden days, by the famous Long Walls. Piraeus was planned by Themistocles, laid out by Hippodamus of Miletus, and built by Pericles. It was at one time a commercial port as well as a town of considerable importance; but, as a result of the destruction of its arsenal and fortifications by Sulla in 86 B. C., it gradually fell into decay. The Piraeus of the present day is connected with the city of Athens by a railway, built in 1869. The town is known as the Manchester of Greece, on account of its growth as a commercial center.—Kansas City Star.

Large Island. New Guinea is the largest island on the globe after Australia.

At midnight all were ushered into the dining room where a luncheon was served. All departed for their homes after spending a most enjoyable evening.

A First Birthday Party. A delightful party was held at the home of Mrs. George Arnold, 53 Sycamore Street, in honor of little John Arnold's first birthday. He received many useful and beautiful presents, including money. Games were enjoyed and toward midnight the guests were ushered into the dining room where a bountiful chicken supper was served. After supper the many birthday cakes were cut. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Henrich, Miss Wittaker, Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold of Glasco, Mr.

and Mrs. John Mack and family, of Saugerties; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ostrander and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Hillis, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stalter and daughter, Mrs. Mae Curdin and family, Mrs. May Archambault and family, the Misses Margaret Whalen, Alice McGowan, Harold Miller, Fred Hillis. All departed, wishing little John many happy returns and wishing he may see scores more birthdays.

Venison at Birthday Party. Mrs. Louis Simonetti before marriage, Miss Mary Cuneo, was the guest of honor at a birthday party held Thursday evening at the Cuneo residence, 618 Broadway, where Mr. and Mrs. Simonetti and son, Herbert, made their home. A venison supper with duck, chicken and plenty of other savory dishes on the menu, was served, covers being laid for about thirty, there being a few invited guests who are near friends, to the Cuneo and Dondoro families. After ice cream, cake and coffee, cigars were lighted, and a most pleasant hour had during which there was singing and instrumental music followed by congratulatory addresses to Mrs. Simonetti, John J. Cuneo, Dr. A. L. Hill and Val Paul related incidents of their deer hunting trip; how Joseph (Pop) Cuneo had shot at about four deer wasting a lot of shot, and how Mr. Paul was attacked with buck fever and while he too failed to kill a deer, he made good by doing most of the work about the bungalow and dragged practically unassisted the two deer shot by the party out of the fields to the open.

"If a Man Write a Better Book." Etc. "If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." There has been considerable controversy as to the source of the foregoing quotation. It has been attributed to John R. Faxon, Emerson, Elbert Hubbard and others. An investigation made by the Literary Digest in 1915 reached a conclusion naming Elbert Hubbard as the author of the quotation and disposing of other claims. In the Literary Digest of April 8, 1920, the statement as to the authorship of the quotation is repeated.

A Bird That Sings. The tailor bird, an East Indian warbler, is peculiar mainly in his nest-making. The actual structure of his ingenious cradle has never been scientifically observed. It is said, although tailor birds are common. He either sews a dead leaf to a living one, or joins two neighboring leaves together so as to form a kind of hanging pouch, which remains attached to the branch by the leaf stalk of one or both leaves.—Wide World Magazine.

English Quakes. The first recorded earth tremor in Britain occurred a few centuries after the Norman conquest, and two centuries later, in 1274, Glastonbury was destroyed. In the ensuing centuries over a score of seismic disturbances have been experienced in the kingdom, the most serious occurring in 1884, causing two fatalities and damage to the extent of $50,000. In the Eastern counties, Londoners have had the unpleasant experience on several occasions, but Cornwall and South Wales have most frequently "quaked."

Preserving Mount Vernon. Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington, belongs to the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the United States, an organization founded in 1893 by Miss Ann Pamela Cunningham, of South Carolina. At that time the historic estate was falling into decay. The association succeeded in raising $200,000 with which to buy the property and took possession in 1898. It has few members. Every state is entitled to one vice regent, but not every state has one. The chief income of the association is the fee of 25 cents that is charged for admission to Mount Vernon. All the money so received is used to maintain the property. Every year in May the regents meet at Mount Vernon for the council week and to inspect the estate.—Youth's Companion.
